POLITICAL PURPOSE LAID TO NEW DEAL

Claims Policy Gives Indirect Aid to Russians and Will Lead to Trouble

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Major General Van Horn Moseley, retired, commander of the Fourth Corps Area, today attacked proposals for a "gigantic national defense program" as "propaganda of war."

"Much of our present weakness," the general said in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the New York Board of Trade, "is in the fear and hysteria being engendered among the American people for the political purpose of finding justification for enormous expenditures under the guise of national defense."

Three-Point Program.
The general suggested this three-point program to keep the nation out of war:

1. A settlement with Japan to insure a lasting peace in the Pacific with increasing trade for the United States.
2. A mind-our-own-business policy in Europe.
3. A campaign at home "to drive out domestic enemies."

The address throughout bristled with criticism of the administration's foreign and domestic policies and carried forward the reasoning in the general's statement of September 30 in which he rebuked the New Deal for "unholy theories" which "endanger the United States from within."

Reprimand Incident.
The September 30 statement, issued on the occasion of the general's retirement from active service, brought a sharp reprimand from Secretary of War Woodring who accused the general of disloyalty.

The general described the government's foreign policy today as one of "injecting ourselves in a most irritating way into the internal affairs of certain neighbors and thus storing up for ourselves future difficulties which one day may lead to war."

The speaker believed that the United States should recognize Japan's sphere of influence in the

Rumania Drafts Plans To Restrict Semites

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The cabinet at a session attended by King Carol today devised a 10-year program for the gradual reduction of the influence of Jews and foreigners in Rumania.

The government decided to liberalize conditions under which Jews may emigrate, probably permitting them to remove some of their wealth.

Here, There, Everywhere, Is Fugitive Forrest Turner

Nobody Wants To See Him
But Police and They Can't.

By LEE FUHRMAN.
Has anybody here seen Turner?

The answer to that paraphrase of the old song about Kelly of the Emerald Isles is an emphatic affirmative. The elusive Turner, who escaped a few weeks ago from Taitnall prison, has been seen by everybody—except police—from Atlanta to Griffin, from Griffin to East Point, and from East Point to Conyers.

The elusive wizard, for whom general alarms have been sounded throughout the state, is the authorities' major headache.

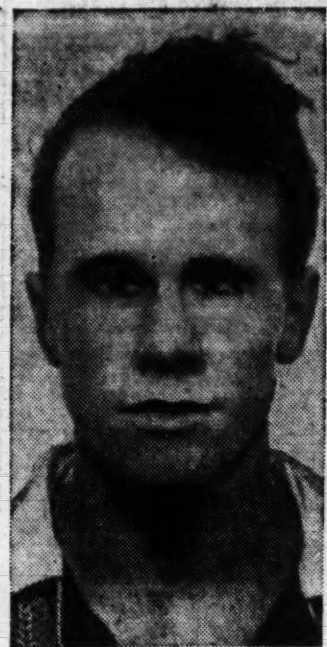

They'd like to catch him, and have been close to that accomplishment. But Turner always managed to slip through, somehow.

And, after slipping through, and disappearing for a short time, up pops Mr. Turner again.

Turner's latest reappearance came yesterday. An East Point dry cleaner, who knows him, told police he saw Turner and another man standing beside a car parked on Sylvan road, a few miles southwest of Atlanta, in the general neighborhood of East Point.

A woman was in the car, this informant told Police Chief W. H. Tyler, of East Point. Chief Tyler immediately notified police of College Park, Hapeville and near-by towns.

Turner also was seen in Conyers Tuesday afternoon. This time, Sheriff Cook, of Rockdale county, reported an old acquaintance of the much-sought convict talked with Turner for several minutes.

Shortly afterward, a car was reported stolen.

Turner also has "turned up" within past days in Atlanta, Griffin, Manchester, Zebulon and LaGrange. Several holdups and attempted holdups in those communities have been his work, according to police.

In many instances, victims positively identified photographs of Turner as the man "on the job."

KESSLER STRIKE FINALLY SETTLED

72-Week Dispute Ended
by Agreement Obtained by Labor Commissioner.

Commissioner of Labor Ben T. Hulet yesterday announced that his office has obtained approval of an agreement settling the strike of retail clerks in Kessler's Atlanta store, a strike which has drawn out for 72 weeks—nearly a year and a half.

The commissioner, who has been mediating the situation for several weeks, declared that the strike has been terminated to the satisfaction of the company and the employees. Five stores are operated by the company but only the Atlanta unit has been picketed. The settlement ends the picketing.

The formal statement of Hulet, announcing settlement of the strike, follows:

"I am very happy that the Kessler labor dispute has been settled to the mutual satisfaction of all concerned, and I am sure the settlement of this long-standing dispute will prove beneficial to both parties. Also I feel that the general public will be benefited and will demonstrate their spirit of co-operation."

In connection with the settlement, B. H. Whitehead, representing the union, said:

"The union is very glad to settle this long, drawn-out dispute, which has been ended principally through the efforts of the State Department of Labor. The union feels termination of this strike will prove advantageous and satisfactory to both parties, and the union will exercise its influence to advance the interests of H. Kessler in their business as an employer."

Governor Will Name Chief Justice Today

The post of chief justice of the supreme court, rendered vacant by the death two weeks ago of Richard B. Russell Sr., will be filled today by Governor Rivers, according to his announcement to the court.

It was generally believed last night that Charles S. Reid, former chairman of the State Democratic committee, would accept the Governor's known proffer of the honor, but confirmation could not be obtained.

Eden Is Told U.S. Opposes Insurgents

Franco Victory Would Be Contrary to Our Interests, He Hears.

(Copyright, 1938, by United Press.)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Regardless of the unofficial character of his visit, former British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden has received intimations that the Roosevelt administration believes victory for Generalissimo Franco in Spain would be contrary to United States interests, it was learned tonight.

He has also heard plain speaking, always friendly, it was learned, concerning the prevailing American attitude toward the British government's Spanish policy. It is believed, on the eve of his departure for New York, that the most pressing message he will carry home will be one of American antagonism to a Franco triumph, with its implications regarding a possible new, important base for Germany and Italy.

Officials of influence here, who have spoken out candidly on the Spanish issue and on Britain's role there, as they visualize it, and who have been equally frank in questioning Eden, have taken into account that before many months elapse, King George VI may ask Anthony Eden to form a new British cabinet.

They base this supposition on their conviction that British resistance of totalitarian expansion will stiffen and that, in that event, Eden would be the logical successor of Prime Minister Chamberlain.

During the day he met informally with Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles and Senator Key Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, chairman of the powerful senate foreign relations committee. He was a luncheon guest at Welles' Oxon Hill (Md.) estate.

YULE TRUCE SOUGHT IN SPANISH WAR

PARIS, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The Spanish committee for civil peace, formed by influential Spaniards abroad, announced tonight it had opened negotiations for a Christmas truce in Spain's civil war.

The committee, favoring fully neither the government nor the insurgent side but seeking an end of the war, said it had presented a six-point proposal to Pope Pius XI and to "several governments of Europe and America" with a request they support the plan.

RIVERS DECLINES COMMENT ON ACT

Governor Hints New Taxes in His Speech at Milledgeville Dedication

By The Associated Press.

The board of managers of the Association of County Commissioners of Georgia proposed yesterday that the legislature abandon the state's five mill ad valorem tax and let counties boost their individual property levies to compensate exemption losses.

The resolution, directed to the general assembly, put the group on record as favoring also support of "reasonable legislation designed to replace to the state the revenue heretofore derived by the ad valorem property tax levy."

Rivers at Milledgeville.

Governor Rivers, who has been holding conferences with legislators outlining needs for approximately $8,600,000 if the state is to complete its "little new deal" program, was at Milledgeville for dedication of the state hospital expansion plans. He was represented by aides as having no comment on the resolution.

Speaker Roy Harris of the state house of representatives, also in Milledgeville for the dedication, said he likewise had no comment. Both had touched on the forthcoming legislative session in speeches at Milledgeville earlier in the day.

Governor Rivers, Harris and Senate President John Spivey in brief talks predicted that the legislature would solve financial problems of the state welfare department. Rivers reiterated belief that the "legislature of Georgia will in the future, as it has done in the past, enact such legislation as necessary to carry through the present program to completion."

No Recommendations.

The governor, in his conferences with legislators to sound sentiment before the January session, has made no specific recommendations on raising revenues, merely devoting his remarks to outlining the problems that face the body.

The commissioners' resolutions declared that such a move as they recommend would "reduce taxes as a whole," and, in addition, "make unnecessary the uniformity of assessments throughout the state."

"The county levying authorities," the paper said, "could then determine themselves what governmental services their local people want and increase their tax levies accordingly."

It also was resolved to hold meetings by congressional districts prior to the legislative session "to acquaint the commissioners and legislators with the needs of the counties and get their support for this program."

The board of managers declared

Doubled Atlanta's New Speed Limit at a Cost of $27

Speeders yesterday paid for disregarding the 25-mile-per-hour speed limit. Justice was swift and costly. Here J. H. Clark, center facing judge, is pleading guilty to a charge of driving at 50 miles an hour. The case was booked by J. J. Masters, left, and H. B. Creevy, right, city policemen. Recorder John L. Cone, seated in chair to the left, fined Clark $27.

'Do Your Yule Giving Early' Is Easy and Sensible Way

Contributions To Support Opportunity Families Are Coming in, But Not Rapidly Enough—More Small Donations Are Needed.

By FRANK DRAKE.

How many times a day does everybody in Atlanta see or hear "Do Your Christmas Shopping Early"? The number runs up, we know, because merchants and businessmen and shop girls and shop boys all realize that it's the easiest and most sensible thing to do.

Here's a new one: "Do Your Christmas Giving Early." It's the easiest and most sensible way, too. Contributions to The Constitution's Ten Opportunity families are coming in—but they are coming slowly. The total today, with just nine more days until Christmas, is $469.

Donors Listed.

Here's the score: Previously acknowledged, $448, (including "M. L.'s" $240 for Opportunity No. 1, and the $15 a month the traffic policemen's "26 club" is going to give the M. Family);

Sallie M. Smith, $10;
Mrs. Thomas H. Pitts, $5;
The Harrison Company, $5;
E. A. W., $1.

Total, 21 new dollars.

We appreciate every one of those dollars, because they are going to help the struggling Ten Opportunity families. But there aren't many of them, are there?

Small Gifts Big Help.

Many an independent family is right now making its own way in Atlanta as the result of the nickels, dimes, quarters, half dollars and dollars that flowed into the Ten Opportunity fund in years gone by from people who could not afford to give more.

Last year three families were helped over tough spots solely by the small donations that were sent in. Of course, organizations and groups have in the past "adopted" whole families and supplied all the money a family needed to pull it through. Such organizations and groups will do it again.

Ruth, Alderman Elope to Nevada; Stunned 'Gimp' Gives His Blessing

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The surprise elopement of radio singer Ruth Etting and her young former accompanist, Myrl Alderman, stole most of the interest today from the trial of her former husband and manager, "Colonel" Martin (The Gimp) Snyder, on charges of attempting to murder Alderman last October.

In the midst of the trial, the blond singer and Alderman flew early today to Las Vegas, Nev., where they were married.

The 44-year-old Snyder at first could not believe the news of the wedding. Finally he said: "If it's true that they are married, then from the bottom of my heart I want to wish them all the happiness in the world. I mean that."

Snyder, long a Chicago and New York radio figure, said this in a firm voice audible to most of the courtroom. The jury was out for a recess at the time.

Miss Etting and Alderman arrived at Las Vegas at 7:30 a. m., roused the county clerk from bed to obtain a license and were married shortly after 9 o'clock. Miss Etting gave her age as 37 and Alderman gave his as 30.

Among the witnesses was Snyder's 21-year-old daughter by a previous marriage, Edith Snyder.

Wouldn't Fight for It.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today shelved at least temporarily his hope of friendship with Germany and threw Britain's strength behind France in a united front against the menacing demands of Europe's dictators.

The prime minister, openly rebuffed when Nazi diplomats boycotted a dinner Tuesday night at which he assailed anti-British "vituperations" in the German press, warned of Britain's "grave concern" over any Italian action against French Tunisia.

Embassy Guarded.

The German embassy was under a strong police guard to prevent hostile demonstrations by Britons as newspapers screamed headlines of an "affront" to the head of the British government at the jubilee banquet of the Foreign Press Association.

The boycott of the banquet by German Ambassador Herbert von Dirksen, German newspaper correspondent, and even Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's personal envoy was understood to have been at Hitler's express instructions.

Possible recall of the German ambassador, an item of particular speculation in the British press, was believed to hinge upon a shorthand report of Chamberlain's speech rushed to Hitler during the day.

Soon After Munich.
Developments in the situation, which held the prospect that Britain and France again might find themselves aligned against the totalitarianists only two and one-half months after the "peace of Munich," included:

1. Chamberlain's statement in the house of commons that Britain's new pact of friendship with Italy applies to Tunisia in maintaining the Mediterranean status quo and that "any action contrary to the agreement would be a matter of grave concern to the British government." He added that "I cannot contemplate the possibility of aggression against Tunis."

2. A simultaneous announcement in Paris by Foreign Minister Bonnet that "even if it means

TAX BARGAIN IS MADE ON ICE CREAM ESTATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The government agreed today to accept $2,875,396.33 in settlement of an alleged deficiency of $10,732,916.16 in taxes on the estate of the late Henry W. Breyer, Philadelphia ice cream manufacturer who died in Miami Beach, Fla., March 5, 1936.

The Internal Revenue Bureau had declared that Breyer's net taxable estate was $24,104,667.34. It added that $13,408,312.49 was owed but only $2,875,396.33 paid. Nearly one-fifth of the patents registered in the United States patent office apply to automobiles.

U. S. MAY FINANCE CHINESE PURCHASES

Very Complicated Plan To Sell $25,000,000 of American Products Revealed.

(Copyright, 1938, by United Press.) WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The federal government is considering financing sale of between $25,000,000 and $50,000,000 of American products to China, it was learned tonight.

The plan, which officials described as "very complicated," is expected to be announced shortly. It was emphasized meantime that it will be "purely commercial," meaning it will not be a formal loan which Japan, in view of her war on China, might construe as an unfriendly gesture by a neutral power.

The program has been taking shape for several weeks in discussions between Treasury Department officials and members of a Chinese financial mission headed by K. F. Chen, Shanghai banker. The mission came here ostensibly for the purpose of obtaining financial aid in the war with Japan.

It remains conjectural how China proposes to reimburse the Treasury but it was suggested that Chinese silver shipments will provide adequate surety.

'EMERGENCY' HELD GREATER THAN WAR

Farm Federation Delegates Cheer Address by Mayor LaGuardia.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 14.—(AP) Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, of New York, told the American Farm Bureau Federation today economic maladjustment had created a greater emergency in America than did the World War and suggested that the nation "cut out partisan politics" to meet it.

He said lack of purchasing power was the underlying economic evil, and urged understanding and agreement among agriculture, labor and industry.

"Labor needs security, industry needs stability, and agriculture needs parity," he said. "One cannot get either without the other two. The whole matter resolves itself into getting started. That is most difficult as long as the farmer is raising in a world market and buying in a protected market."

LaGuardia drew great applause when he said, "A farmer's wife should have as pretty clothes as does any other woman in the country."

"I would like to make it a crime, a felony, for anyone to talk about a surplus. No one in this country has a right to do so, as long as any child, woman or man is in need of food, or to talk of supply and demand, if the demand is there without the ability to buy."

TECH TO DEDICATE THREE BUILDINGS COSTING $450,000

3,000 Students, Faculty to Attend Program Today; Keys To Be Accepted by Chancellor S. V. Sanford

Georgia Tech today will dedicate nearly $500,000 of new buildings, erected as part of the school's most expensive building program in over a decade. With Major Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Constitution, presiding, the student body and faculty, numbering almost 3,000, will gather in the new auditorium-gymnasium on Third street at 11:30 o'clock.

Three new buildings, opened and put in use at the beginning of this semester, although they were then not completed, will be dedicated. They include the civil engineering, mechanical engineering and the auditorium-gymnasium buildings.

Cole To Present Keys.
A program built around the address of Governor Rivers will include presentation of the keys by H. T. Cole, regional director of PWA, which assisted in construction; acceptance of the keys by Chancellor S. V. Sanford; acceptance for Georgia Tech by L. W. Robert Jr., an address of welcome by President M. L. Brittain.

Dr. Louis D. Newton will read the invocation and the Tech band will provide music. Inspection of the new buildings will be made before and after the exercises.

The auditorium-gymnasium, built at a cost of $150,000, and constructed to seat almost 3,000 persons, is of a style new in the south for collegiate architecture. A large auditorium of monolithic concrete construction, it is modeled on the plain types used abroad.

Style in English Collegiate.
The civil engineering building and the mechanical engineering building, constructed at a total cost of approximately $300,000 are built in the English collegiate style. The latter is as yet uncompleted, but is already in partial use.

Members of Tech's department of architecture, under the direction of Professors Harold Bush-Brown and James H. Gailey, designed and supervised construction of all three buildings.

DR. THOMAS M. PARRAN.

SYPHILIS BATTLE OF STATE Praised

U. S. Health Service Head Describes Great Gains Made Against Disease.

Flying from New Orleans to Washington, Dr. Thomas M. Parran, surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service, paused in Atlanta long enough yesterday to say that more progress had been made in the war against syphilis in the last year or so than against any other disease in a like period.

Parran, who put the once-forbidden word on the front pages of every newspaper, in women's magazines and on the air, said progress had been achieved mainly by bringing the disease out of sacrosanct darkness into the open, and educating the people as to its results, prevention and cure.

He declared Glynn and two adjacent Georgia counties were doing the finest bit of syphilis eradication work in the nation, and praised the state and county health boards for their co-operation with the federal government in making such work possible.

Parran had spoken on rural health before the American Farm Bureau Federation in New Orleans. "I am against socialized medicine as the term is generally understood," he said. "There is no thought behind the idea of socializing the medical profession."

"However, we urgently need better public health services and better medical care for those unable to provide it for themselves. That responsibility rests primarily on local agencies, helped, of course, by state and federal governments. Each community must work out its own health program."

SUNRISE SERVICE CHRISTMAS MORN
Annual Young People's Program To Be Given.

A sunrise service Christmas morning will be held by the young people's commission of the Atlanta Christian Council in the Central Presbyterian church. It will be the eleventh year for the service. Christmas hymns, prayer, a sermon, a Christmas message, special music and a special Christmas scripture reading are on the program which starts at 7 o'clock and lasts one hour.

The purpose of the annual service is the retention and deepening of the sense of sacredness, purity and blessedness which characterized that first Christmas, the announcement said.

REFORM CONSTITUTION.
PRAGUE, Dec. 14.—(P)—The Czechoslovak parliament approved a bill tonight authorizing the government to reform the constitution within certain limits by simple decree. The vote was 148 to 16.

HEARING TODAY AIRS ANNEXATION PLANS

Arguments Will Be Heard at 3 O'Clock This Afternoon at City Hall.

Arguments for and against the proposed annexation of 34 square miles of outlying residential and industrial territory by Atlanta will be made at a public hearing at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the city hall.

The annexation proposal, submitted to city council at its last meeting, will be taken up by the ordinance and legislation committee, of which Councilman J. Allen Couch is chairman.

Sponsors of the proposal pointed out it would bring $200,000,000 in taxable property into the city, double the city's size and increase the population to approximately 400,000. It provides that the city limits would be extended to include all of the north side, northwest Atlanta, and the sections south of Atlanta to the East Point city limit.

Members of the committee also will study a proposal to make terms of all city officials concurrent to eliminate holding several elections. Councilmen now serve three years while aldermen serve four years. Another proposal calls for a rule permitting any member of council to serve as mayor pro tem. The office is now restricted to aldermen.

TEXAS CURBS OIL FIELDS.
AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 14.—(P)—Continuation of statewide oil field shutdowns of eight days a month through January, February and March was ordered today by the Texas railroad commission.

DIES BODY HEARS SABOTAGE WARNING

Committee Will End Hearings Today—Its Funds Are Exhausted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(P)—A warning that spies are setting up a "potential sabotage machine" designed to impair the United States' industrial and military efficiency in time of war came today from an investigator for the house committee on Un-American activities.

John C. Metcalfe, who made a six-month inquiry into activities of subversive groups for the committee, testified that he believed "the spy situation in the United States is a very serious menace." President Roosevelt recently directed attention to the spy question when he told newsmen he would recommend increased expenditures to combat espionage activities by foreign agents.

"The real aim of the American Nazi movement," Metcalfe told the committee, "is to build up in the United States a spy organization, a potential sabotage machine and a German minority."

The committee is planning to conclude its prolonged hearings tomorrow because its funds are exhausted.

TUG DOUSES SHIP'S FIRE.
KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 14.—(UP)—The salvage tug Warbler today extinguished a fire in the No. 3 hold of the Southern Pacific Line's S. S. El Mundo, which raced 80 miles into port here after sending out a distress call.

QUESTIONS IDENTITY OF DRUG FIRM HEAD

'He's Not the Man Known to His Office,' Investigator Believes.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(P)—An attorney general's investigator of the financial affairs of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., said today he had "substantial reason to believe" that F. Donald Coster, president of the corporation, "is a man of different identity and known to this office."

Coster and George E. Dietrich, assistant treasurer of the firm, were arrested in Fairfield, Conn., today and held in $5,000 bail each on a charge of violating the securities and exchange act of 1934. Assistant Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall said he had "considerable doubt as to Coster's true identity," and confirmed a report that state detectives were investigating the corporation head's past.

The federal government issued 50 subpoenas to Wall Street operators and brokers, and officers of the corporation.

The firm's treasurer, Julian F. Thompson, told McCall that W. W. Smith & Company, English agent for the firm, was being paid $150,000 a year in commissions although no sales apparently had been made by the brokers.

E. EVERETT YOUNG DIES.

Mrs. Roosevelt
Will Join Board
Of Underwriters

BOSTON, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Mrs.
Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, will be elected a director of the insurance firm of Roosevelt & Sargent at a meeting of the stockholders Monday. John Sargent told the United Press tonight.
As a member of the board she will replace and "protect the interests" of her eldest son, James, whose election as a vice-president of Samuel Goldwyn Productions, Inc., has made necessary that he spend the greater part of his time in California.
Mrs. Roosevelt's lone activity in the firm, he said, is to "protect the interests of her son."
That his mother be a member of the board was suggested by James, Sargent said.
As a director of the firm Mrs.
Roosevelt will attend meetings
"about once every three months, sometimes oftener and occasionally not as often," Sargent said, adding, "we probably would have the meetings in New York for her convenience."

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 14.—The Southern Baptist Convention's executive committee denounced today a governmental order closing the denomination's churches in Rumania and called upon President Roosevelt to take "official cognizance" with a protest. The committee adopted a resolution stating that under a decree of the government "pastors of these churches are denied the right to preach the Gospel of Christ and their congregations are deprived of the privilege of worshipping God in accordance with the dictates of their conscience." It said the edict, effective today, would close 1,572 of the 1,602 Rumanian Baptist churches having a membership of 70,000. The resolution added that "ministers and laymen have been thrust into prison" with loss of their civil rights. The committee requested Washington authorities to have the American minister to Rumania "report in full detail an account of the persecutions that accompany enforcement" of the decree.

RUMANIAN BAPTISTS
CLOSE 1,500 CHURCHES
BUCHAREST, Dec. 14.—(UP)—More than 80,000 Rumanian Baptists, affiliated with the World Alliance of Baptists, today closed their 1,500 churches throughout Rumania as King Carol II's dictatorship augmented its anti-Jewish program with measures against Protestant organizations. The Baptist leaders voluntarily ordered the closing of all churches and prayer houses to forestall government action under a decree issued last June 15 by Bishop Colan, of the Rumanian Orthodox church, who is Minister of Cults in the cabinet.

TATNALL FUGITIVE FOUND IN 24 HOURS
W. D. Turner Arrested Without Disturbance.

A young convict who escaped from a truck carrying him from Forsyth county prison camp to Tattall prison was captured here yesterday, less than 24 hours after his break. The prisoner, W. D. Turner, 20, who lived on Jefferson street, was taken into custody quietly by Radio Patrolmen J. J. Chester and W. M. Holland as he sat in the living room of a house on Tumlin street, N. W. He offered no resistance, and was lodged in police headquarters, pending transfer to Tattall. Turner, serving a term for felony, escaped from the truck near Buford. A Saint John, N. B., ambulance association brigade of six divisions is to be built here around Rover Scout crews and older scouts.

HIGHLAND WILL GET BIG TRADING CENTER

Rezoning of Area Approved,
Paving Way for Briarcliff Development.

Further steps toward the development of a community trading area on Ponce de Leon avenue near Highland avenue were taken yesterday as the zoning subcommittee of the city planning commission granted another petition for rezoning of property in this section for business purposes. The petition was brought by the Trust Company of Georgia, as executor of Mrs. Lenora Adair, deceased. It called for the rezoning of property fronting on the south side of Ponce de Leon avenue, N. E., at the southwest corner of Cleburne avenue. Plans for the trading center, which would be similar to Rhodes Center, call for the most modern type of commercial development. Sponsors of the project have been laying groundwork for several months. They predicted actual work would be started within the next six months. The development will be known as Briarcliff Center and will have adequate facilities for parking. The zoning committee denied a petition asking for rezoning of property at Todd and Virginia avenues. A delegation of residents of the section appeared before the committee to protest the change.

TEN GEORGIANS VIE FOR RHODES AWARD

Two Will Be Selected Today as Nominees for Four Scholarships.

Two Georgia nominees for Rhodes scholarships will be selected from 10 candidates who will appear before the state scholarship committee at 10 o'clock this morning at the Biltmore hotel.

Georgia's two representatives chosen today will compete Saturday with 10 others from Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and Florida for the four coveted scholarships awarded in the district.

The Georgia candidates include John R. Williams Jr., of Atlanta, student at Davidson; Jack E. Branch, of Washington, D. C., son of Harlee Branch and a student at Emory; Robert P. Birch, of Macon, Mercer; Warwick E. Elrod Jr., of Atlanta, Harvard, and Lionel W. McKinsey Jr., of Montezuma, Duke.

Allen Post, member of the state committee, said Georgia now has four Rhodes scholars at Oxford and 14 living in the state. Those at Oxford are Fenwick Jones, of Savannah; David S. Cuttino, of Newnan; James H. Sledd, of Decatur, and Lane Timmons, of Atlanta.

Other members of the state committee are Dr. Harvey W. Cox, of

CHARLES TUNISON DIES IN AVONDALE

Manager of Pharmaceutical Office.

Charles C. Tunison, 54, died yesterday morning at his home in Avondale Estates. Formerly a drug store proprietor of Madison, he had been manager of the Atlanta division of Sharp & Dohme, pharmaceutical manufacturers, for more than 30 years, but had been inactive since November, 1937, because of illness.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Mary C. Trotter, of Madison; a son, Charles C. Tunison Jr.; a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Tunison; one brother, Carlton Tunison, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Martin, both of Atlanta.

Funeral service will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the W. C. Hemperley Chapel at Madison, with the Rev. C. I. Stacy, of Elberton, officiating. Burial will be in Madison.

DOUGHNUTS, COFFEE SERVED AT 'HUT'

Atlanta Salvation Army Lasses Renew Art of 20 Years Ago.

Doughboys—who smacked their lips over doughnuts and coffee served by the Salvation Army "over there"—are at it again. Twenty years ago when the Salvation Army's huts were havens for the hungry, doughnuts and coffee became a tradition with the organization.

Yesterday at 56 Broad street in the Healey building, the Army opened a hut again. All day long World War veterans, their friends, families and tired and weary Christmas shoppers stopped at the hut for the famous combination of "doughnuts and coffee."

The hut and service is under the sponsorship of the Gate City Post of the American Legion and Major R. B. Fitten, of the Salvation Army, general secretary of the training school, is in charge. Salvation lassies served hundreds of customers to the famous menu, the proceeds going toward their fund for Christmas, for the poor and needy.

Two of the doughnuts are sold with coffee for ten cents. Those who cannot linger at the hut, may buy them fresh and boxed for 20 cents a dozen, or ten cents for a half-dozen for plain, cinnamon and sugar-coated doughnuts. The frosted, coconut and chocolate doughnuts are sold for 25 cents a dozen, or 15 cents a half-dozen.

Newsboy Dinner Will Be Held On December 23

Hawkers of news on Atlanta's streets yesterday heard the rumblings of good tidings for the 1938 Christmas season.

Phil C. McDuffie, Atlanta attorney, engineer of newsboy (and girl) dinners for the past 23 years, issued the annual invitation to a bountiful turkey dinner with all the trappings for Friday night, December 23, at the Ansley hotel.

The first such dinner was held nearly a quarter of a century ago, and was such a success it has been repeated annually. Last year, more than 250 boys and girls attended the affair.

Atlanta newspapers always cooperate in the event, and the public subscribes to the fund to provide the food. McDuffie announced yesterday that this year's dinner probably will be the most successful ever held.

"This is one of the unique functions of Atlanta at Christmas," McDuffie said in announcing the plans. "It is not charity in the usual sense. It is merely hospitality and appreciation for those who merchant the news to us every day in the year. The only object is to say 'a good time was had by all' with a smile."

Fritz McDuffie, president of the Emory University glee club, will be in charge of the entertainment program and will be assisted by other talent.

AYCOCK A FUGITIVE, BOND IS FORFEITED

Former Policeman Fails To Appear and Is Ordered Rearrested.

Frank J. Aycock, former city policeman, whose troubles extended from accusations of wife beating to that of accepting bribes to protect Atlanta bootleggers, yesterday was a fugitive from justice.

Judge Hugh M. Dorsey, of Fulton county superior court, ordered his $1,000 bond forfeited, a bench warrant was issued for his arrest and he was ordered held under a $2,000 bond when rearrested.

Aycock was indicted with another ex-policeman, G. B. Scoggins. Scoggins has been tried, convicted and sentenced to serve two years.

They are alleged to have accepted $25 each in 1937 from Jimmie

Roberts and Paul Johnson, former bootleggers.

Defense Attorney William Schley Howard appeared in court and informed Judge Dorsey it was reported to him that Aycock was ill.

E. E. (Shorty) Andrews, special rackets prosecutor, insisted that no legal showing had been made and contended that the bond should be forfeited.

Andrews previously had announced that the trial of J. B. King, a former city detective, would begin yesterday, but the case was not called and probably will go over until the January term of court.

WOMEN'S C. OF C. WILL HELP SALES BY BIG BROTHERS

Will Join Atlanta's Businessmen in Selling Papers Sunday, Proceeds To Help Needy Families.

Because the need is so great, they said, and because the work is so effective, members of Atlanta's Women's Chamber of Commerce offered their services yesterday to the Big Brothers.

The women asked to join the volunteer army of men who will canvass Atlanta streets Sunday, selling The Constitution's Big Brother edition, in the sixth annual drive to make Christmas more cheerful for the poor.

Every cent raised by the erstwhile bankers, brokers, butchers and bakers—newsboys for two hours next Sunday—will be converted into food, clothes and Christmas toys to fill baskets for the poor.

Charity Ball Plans.
Plans for the annual charity ball, now a popular fixture of the Christmas season, are rapidly going forward under the leadership of Chairman Marion Boswell.

"We have engaged two of the finest orchestras in Atlanta," Bos-

These 'Newsies' May Ring Your Doorbell on Sunday

Don't let the prosperous look of these newsboys fool you when they come to your door Sunday morning. They will be selling the Big Brother edition of The Constitution, and the proceeds will go to the general fund to bring Christmas joy to the most cheerless homes of the city. From left to right are shown Robert A. Harbort, Herbert Z. Hopkins and Julian V. Boehm, prominent Atlanta businessmen, who will canvass the Pershing Point section, raising money for the Big Brothers' annual Christmas war against gloom.

well said, "and have prepared a good time for everybody."

Two balls will be held this year, Boswell stated, to prevent overcrowding. Both will be held the night of December 21, one in the Egyptian ballroom of the Shrine Mosque, and the other in the new clubhouse of Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion, in Piedmont park. Tickets, moderately priced at 50 cents each, will admit bearers to both parties.

To Have Floor Shows.
Boswell urged all interested in helping the Big Brothers to buy tickets and come to the dances. Floor shows and other entertainment features will be provided at both parties.

Meanwhile, M. M. (Mike) Gilliland asked anyone interested in helping the Big Brothers sell the special edition next Sunday morning to clip the attached coupon, fill it in, and mail it to headquarters at 56 Peachtree street.

A. L. BELLE ISLE CALLS MEETING

Chairman A. L. Belle Isle announced yesterday that he had called a special meeting of all Big Brother workers at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at headquarters, 56 Peachtree street. Belle Isle said that plans would be completed there for the paper sale next Sunday, and for the two balls to be held December 21.

Police Play Good Samaritans, Rescue Young Man, Find Him Job

Atlanta police played Good Samaritan last night and rescued a desperate, jobless young man. Instead of the jail sentence he wanted—because he felt this his only hope of security—the man obtained a job and a chance to rehabilitate himself.

The incident was unfolded when the young man, about 23 years old, rather well dressed and of respectable mien and manner, walked into the chief's office at police headquarters.

"I want to be arrested," he told Lieutenant R. H. McLean. "What for? Are you a fugitive? Have you committed a crime?"

"No, sir," came the reply. "But I'm desperate. I'm from Greenville, S. C. Both my parents are dead. I've been here several weeks and I can't find work. I guess jail is the only place I can go where I won't starve."

Meanwhile, other officers on duty gathered at the "counter" in the office and listened to the South Carolinian's story. All were favorably impressed with his sincerity.

"Why, you don't have to go to jail," McLean declared. "I believe I can find you a job. Wait a minute."

The officer dialed the telephone, talked for a few minutes with a friend in the dry-cleaning business, recounting the young man's plight. The dry cleaner said, in effect, "send him around to me, I'll take care of him."

The youth's name was withheld.

TOM HUGHES HELD UNDER $1,000 BAIL

Counterfeit Money Figures in Tale of Complainants.

Tom Hughes, salesman, yesterday was held for the Fulton grand jury in $1,000 bond following an involved tale by two Dawsonville youths that they were fleeced of $200, which Hughes is alleged to have collected "to purchase $1,000 in counterfeit money."

The story was related before Judge Luther Z. Foster, of the municipal court, while George Broadnax, secret service chief for the southeast, sat in the courtroom taking notes.

Dorsey Bannister, 20, farm hand, and Esco Fauts, 22, store clerk, were the complainants. They testified they delivered the $200 in a hotel room with Hughes and a man introduced to them as a "Mr. Shorty Roberts." "Roberts," they said, disappeared with the money.

Two Men Wanted

One of the oldest, best established and most widely known Eastern Mutual Life Insurance Companies has decided upon an expansion program in Georgia. They desire to connect with two men for some very important work.

They prefer men without life insurance experience, as they will be trained for the work they are to do. The men must have attained some degree of success briefly, they are not looking for a job or position, but seek an opportunity.

The men they want are probably not younger than thirty, nor older than forty-three; they are married, have responsibilities, and probably are college men.

If you believe you have qualifications that come up to our requirements, address us in confidence, telling about yourself, your experience, etc., after which time an interview will be arranged.

AMERICAN SOLIDARITY

Every indication, each news report, so far received in this country from the Pan-American conference now in session at Lima, strengthens belief this gathering may have a greater bearing upon the future of America than any hitherto held.

Too much importance can hardly be given to the agreements for a united front, by the 21 nations represented, in defense of this hemisphere from any foreign foe; for a reduction of tariff barriers between the various nations of the two Americas, and, as a by-product of the conference, for the final arrangement of a trade treaty between Argentina and the United States.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, United States representative, has inspired a feeling of full confidence in the peoples of neighboring American nations during his tenure in the cabinet. Reports stating that the solidarity agreement, providing for consultation among all American nations in event the sovereignty or political institutions of any one of them is threatened by an outside force, follows closely the lines first suggested by Secretary Hull is further tribute to the respect for his ideas felt by the leaders of the South American nations.

Add to this the probable consummation of a program of tariff reduction between these various American nations, and the way is well-paved for a desirable collaboration and concentration of mutual interest, by every nation on the American continents.

Added impetus to the development of this rapprochement is found in the announcement of a new loan of $15,000,000, made in New York, for the further extension and improvement of United States-owned lines of communication in South America.

Nothing can be more important, in this era of old-world jealousies, of strange new governmental theories and practices, of international and racial hatreds, than the binding together of all American nations in a close-knit group, dedicated to mutual co-operation and to the protection of these western continents against the attack or infiltration of anti-democratic powers or beliefs.

The front line in democracy's fast developing struggle for existence against the waves of totalitarian enslavement may be the remaining democracies of the old world, France, Great Britain and the countries of north Europe. But the great stronghold of democracy, the area where its seeds have flourished and become towering oaks of human independence, is today in America. By strengthening the ties between all Americans, of whatever nation, and by neighborly co-operation in mutual defense and mutual development, there may develop in all the Americas such a passion for democratic ideals and such a strength of democratic principle that foreign ideologies will fall back, futile and impotent, like tiny ripples of the ocean against a rockbound coast.

After all, the Americas constitute the only proper "sphere of influence," for the United States and all her brother nations of the hemisphere. There is enough, and more, yet to be achieved on these continents, without any scattering of our own strength in the quarrels of any other section of the globe.

Along with the "aged pedestrian" of 40, mentioned by the young reporter, is the "mighty atom" of college football who turns out to weigh 159.

The nature of a mysterious German ray which purports to mow the adversary down is not divulged. Perhaps Hitler breathes on him.

In setting out to "expropriate" property, it is unwise to wear the sweater and the cap, as one might be mistaken for any ordinary robber.

Let the headline-skimmers be advised that this Pan-America campaign in the Nazi press has no relation to a Lima conference of the same name.

In the end it must occur to the dictator's minions that people in a democracy have more fun, saving it from one another.

ART ON THE CAMPUS

There is a factor in life, one of the most vital of all in so far as better living and advancing civilization are concerned, which is accepted almost casually among many peoples of the old world, but which has not yet achieved its proper and desirable place in the consciousness of the average American.

That is the presence, the practice and the appreciation of art. Art has been defined as the human creation of beauty, parallel with, but distinct from the beauty of God, which is found in nature. No nation, or people, can hope for full development of its highest ideals without an understanding and appreciation for art in its varied forms, by all the people of that nation.

If this familiarity with art is to be achieved in America, it must find its root in the schools, and upon the college campuses, among the youth of the land who carry the fate of new generations within them. Unless the acceptance of art is instilled in youth, there is little likelihood of it taking strong hold of the more adult spirit of man.

Therefore an experiment which was begun last fall at the University of Georgia, in Athens, becomes of primary importance. This was the addition of Lamar Dodd, a practicing, professional artist, to the faculty of the art department of the university. Now, after a few months of watchful trial, it may be unequivocally stated that the experiment is proving a complete success.

This is evidenced more in the attitude of the student body as a whole, than in the gratifying increase in registration in art classes. Students are found, daily, in Mr. Dodd's studios, there not because of required classes, but because they are interested, keenly alive to the importance of true art in the modern world. The presence of Mr. Dodd, a practicing artist, upon the campus has proven a stimulus to the entire body of students and of faculty.

Georgia thus joins that list of American universities which are pointing the way to an acceptance of art in everyday American life, just as it is accepted by the French, the Belgians, the Swedes, Hungarians and the British.

PARADISE REGAINED

Atlantans, and other north Georgians, who have had the good fortune to enjoy vacations at St. Simons Island, Sea Island or Brunswick, have always regarded that area as a resort most blessed by nature and least contaminated by the weaknesses and foolishness of man.

There was, therefore, a feeling of rather shocked regret when charges were heard, emanating from the island itself, to the effect that vice ran rampant there and gambling, bootlegging and other frowned-upon activities formed a large segment of the island industry. There was, of course, the tragedy of the murder of the Rev. Charles H. Lee, rector of the historic Christ church, upon the island, to lend color to the accusations. That crime was generally held by local officials to be a result of the rector's fearless war on the alleged vice conditions.

Then, following developments and arrests in connection with this homicide, there was held a mass meeting of island citizens. At this first mass meeting a committee was named to investigate the alleged gambling and other vice on the island. The committee reported at a second meeting of the perturbed citizenry. Resolutions, at this second meeting, were adopted calling on the Glynn county commissioners to suppress slot machines, to increase the police force on the island and to regulate signboards along the island highways.

The commissioners acted upon these resolutions. Among other things they banned all slot machines and other forms of gambling from the island.

Then the citizens held a third mass meeting. And what happened?

They adopted resolutions declaring there is not now, nor has there ever been, any vice on the island, "that this is the cleanest and loveliest resort in the country," that, though open gambling tables had been permitted in an effort to attract tourists, they had been voluntarily abolished on Labor Day, that it was unnecessary to bring up discussion of a condition which "did not exist" at the previous meeting, and that the demand for abolition of gambling be stricken from the minutes of the previous meeting.

So, the county commissioners of Glynn are left in the position of having acceded to demands, made at a citizens' meeting, which were later expunged and, officially, declared never made.

In reference to the abandonment of gambling on Labor Day, so well spoken of in the newest resolutions, it might be noted that the resort season in south Georgia comes to a formal end, each year, on Labor Day. It remains to be seen whether it will be possible to risk a chancy nickel in a slot machine on the island next season.

But it is gratifying to note, at least, that the island has regained its paradise status and that all evil is definitely abolished from its sanctified confines. Even that evil which, upon the authority of the most recent resolutions, never did exist!

A historian points out that medieval people would talk about a comet for years, with no clear idea what it was. What was it—appeasement?

CONTROL INEVITABLE

(From the Charlotte Observer.)

Secretary Wallace said in an impressive address to North Carolina farmers gathered in Raleigh that this country is going to have crop control of one sort or another.

It can make up its mind as to the particular sort.

Farmers can choose to have governmental control with its bonuses, subsidies, and such.

Or they can elect not to have governmental control, and let the low markets control the situation.

That is a very compelling statement. We have no idea of attempting to challenge it. In fact, we would not know how.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

RELIEF REFORM LIKELY WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—South Carolina's canny, pleasant-mannered senator, James F. Byrnes, has announced a determination to reshape relief policy at the next congressional session. He is already at work on a plan narrowly confining the powers of Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins and his aides. He is assured of the support not only of many Democrats, but also of most Republicans. In fact, it appears that the White House will have to give in, or face the hardest kind of fight on relief.

Of course, Jimmy Byrnes doesn't always stay hunched. He has a strong personal feeling for the President, which has survived marked differences of opinion on such matters as the sit-down strikes and the purge. But he also has a strong personal feeling for the Vice President, who is said to be dead-set on some sort of relief reform. And Byrnes gives every sign of being ready to carry through.

An important indication that he means business was his recent overture to the Republican leadership of the senate, which proved, incidentally, that the old Republican-conservative Democratic coalition is by no means defunct. Byrnes was told, as a matter of form, that the Republicans would have to stand for their own pet program of returning relief to the states. But there need be no doubt that, after the Republican statesmen have had their say, their leader, the wise, unvoiced Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, will line them up solidly behind the Byrnes plan. As the WPA's primary shenanigans have infuriated scores of Democrats, that should leave the senatorial New Dealers standing alone, with Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley moaning plaintively but ineffectually at their head.

BLANK CHECK FILLED IN The Byrnes plan, while still incomplete, is beginning to take rather definite shape. It will not so far as the often-advocated surrender of relief administration to state authorities. On the other hand, it will vastly increase the congressional limitations on WPA, which has operated, to date, just about as the whim took Harry Hopkins and the President.

Categories of relief spending will be laid down. Probably there will be formulae for automatic apportionment of relief funds by simple calculations of the local prevalence of unemployment and state population figures. No doubt the proposal of Senator Carl Hatch, of New Mexico, to outlaw politics in relief will be revived and strongly backed. In short, every effort will be made to fill in the famous blank check.

The fight may start almost immediately after the session opens. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. has already strained himself to find an additional $200,000,000 for WPA. Even so, Harry Hopkins has informed the budget bureau that he will urgently need more money by February 28. A supplemental application will have to be sought, and the demand for it will give Byrnes his chance. He already has his weapon in the special senate committee on unemployment and relief. Last year, this body's labors were the purest farce, but now that Jimmy Byrnes has made up his mind something must be done, it's probable that committee investigations will no longer be supervised by WPA employees and ex-employees.

PRESIDENTIAL PREDICAMENT

Not long ago, Byrnes and Harry Hopkins talked over the relief problem. The meeting was represented as amiable and meaningless, but actually Byrnes read a very sharp lecture to his old friend and crony in conviviality. Hopkins himself, meanwhile, has also publicly acknowledged the inevitability of some change. Besides advocating civil service status for WPA, he has stressed a desire to work with congress in other improvements of the relief setup.

Elsewhere among the New Dealers there are even stronger hints that change may not be opposed. In the first excitement of the national defense program, there was some private talk of a complete liquidation of WPA, in favor of a combined armaments, public works and direct relief program. WPA authorities, always a trifle jealous of the WPA, are once more talking, even now, of the superiority of straight public works and direct relief.

Nevertheless, the President is sure to be reluctant to abandon the old system of blank check appropriation. It has given him his greatest power over congress, and few men care to relinquish their powers. That is why the odds on a hard fight are much better than even. It's to be hoped, at least, that one of the fight's results will be a few facts on the relief question, on which present thinking is largely based on faith and self-interest.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

*Humor comes in varied guise,
In plain or molten garb,
But best of all, I here surmise,
Bears never cruel barb.*

*For wit that wins the fleeting laugh
At some poor butt's expense,
Proves potent only morons quell.
To others 'tis offense.*

*So when, my son, you seek the quip
To rouse a crowd's guffaw,
You'll wisdom show to take this tip—
Obey the good taste law.*

Good Taste
In Humor.

It has frequently been said that jokes which used to be told only in Pullman smokers, with none but males present, are now freely bandied about at the bridge table in mixed, and ostensibly polite, company. This is written for the sole purpose of challenging the use of the adjective "polite" in connection with such a gathering. For it is easily demonstrable that anyone who tells a risque anecdote which may offend even one other person present, is lacking in those qualities which are essential to the conduct of gentlemen, or ladies. For it is the basic principle of decent gentility, not to unnecessarily offend anyone.

There is, too, another type of alleged humor which a proper person will not exercise. This is the cruel, or barbed wit, which creates a laugh at the expense of another individual. Pain, even to one of the humblest, is not concomitant with humor. If a room full is made to laugh at some jibe that brings the flush of the butt of the joke, it were better taste to have kept silent, never to have voiced the witticism.

Ladies and Gentlemen.

It is, to my thinking, a serious misfortune that the entitlements of "lady" and "gentleman" have become largely outmoded in modern life. The words have, undoubtedly, been recklessly used and woefully misapplied. Yet this society in which we live, this common world in which we must rub shoulders, almost constantly, with one another, would be a much better and a pleasanter place to-day, had we all retained respect and honor for "lady" and "gentleman" and all they should mean.

The word "gentleman" would be, perhaps, better understood if we used it as two words, "gentle man." In fact, the adjective "gentle" in this use should never be associated with any person undesirably soft, sissy or weak. There can be nothing higher in worldly aspiration for any youth than the status of the real "gentle man." The man who is gentle and kindly and considerate in all his dealings with others, yet is inflexible as steel when a question of honor, or principle, is at stake. Such a man is unconquerable in battle, yet utterly merciful to his defeated foe.

Many Assume, Few Are Worthy.

The right to these titles of lady and of gentleman is almost universal. It is assumed today, yet only a comparative few so live and so behave as to justify the classification they demand.

In fact, the true lady or gentleman never demands recognition. If it has to be demanded, by that very act it dissolves into nothing. True gentility asks no tribute, it lies within the heart and the soul, confident and serene in its own existence, indifferent as to the attitudes of others.

A gentleman is never impolite, is never cruel, is never overbearing. He is always considerate, just even to sacrifice, honorable and upright in all his dealings. His word is his pledge and, once given, is inviolate.

A lady is never crude, blatant or vulgar. She seeks no spotlight and considers noisy ostentation offensive. She is quietly at home in any environment and wherever she goes she radiates an aura of charm, perceptible, perhaps, only to gentlemen and other ladies, whether she be young or old, beautiful or homely, fashionable or simple.

One of the crying needs of today is for more ladies, more gentlemen and a better understanding, by us all, of what gentility should be and represent.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Coughlin NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—As to own political traits it may be recalled that in the 1936 presidential election campaign he aspired to the leadership of a great force, without form or organization, which would dominate the government of the United States. He was to be the leader of this force, a title which is the American equivalent of the Italian Duce and the German Fuehrer, without advisers or democratic machinery. He pointed out to this following that presidents of the United States often are obedient to the desires of those who put them in office—a true and harmless observation of itself but one of special interest as it came from him. He apparently meant that if his force acquired sufficient strength he, as sole spokesman and unquestioned boss of the group, would be the one to communicate the wishes which the President was desired to obey. Inasmuch as there was no compulsion to consult his following about their desires, no provision to check Father Coughlin's interpretation of them, he was to be the infallible spokesman of those who put the President in office, and in the fulfillment of that plan the boss of the American president.

This was the campaign in which Father Coughlin called President Roosevelt a liar and double-crosser and spoke ominously of a resort to bullets instead of ballots. He is not often explicit, but his utterances suggested that if he achieved full power he would communicate to the President a popular desire that this country make war on Mexico.

In the course of the excitement Father Coughlin's superior, Bishop Gallagher, remarked that the voice of Father Coughlin was the voice of God, but the good priest of the Shrine of the Little Flower did not trade on this indorsement.

A Cleveland Father Coughlin's position on the question of freedom of speech, which recently has been agitated on its own behalf, was suggested by an incident during the Cleveland convention of the Old Folks' party. There Gomer Smith, of Oklahoma, was read out of the party for defending President Roosevelt against remarks by Father Coughlin which Mr. Smith regarded as insults to the President.

And in his discussion of labor organization, although he was vague, as he often is, Father Coughlin seemed something like the Fascist labor front, to be controlled by the government and operated by the Department of Labor. Ostensibly such an organization would give labor a hand in the government, but in Italy and Germany the effect has been to deliver labor into the control of one man, and if Father Coughlin were to become the President's boss in the United States the position of labor in the government was something to be seriously pondered.

The government was to take over the duty of bargaining collectively for labor, but, having driven bargains for labor, would require labor to keep the bargains. It was not made clear in just what circumstances Father Coughlin would favor a resort to bullets instead of ballots, but it seemed prudent to consider whether he would see justification for such a resort to action in the event that some labor group refused to be bound by a government bargain on its behalf, particularly if it could be shouted up over the air from the Shrine of the Little Flower that the position of labor in the government was something to be seriously pondered.

The Lack The shapeliness, the lack of checks, the lack of decisions and policies of the leader of the Coughlin force in politics would have conferred on him unquestionable authority to speak for the American people, the minority excepted. The minority, presumably, would have had to accept the will of the majority, embodied in one man—Father Coughlin. And always there would be the question whether the disobedience of those who put him in office, as construed by a single individual claiming sole authority to speak for them, would be regarded as the final failure of the ballot.

Although Father Coughlin has denounced those whom he called the money changers, he himself has never discussed financial affairs in which he has been concerned. His method is to attack always, and a great taboo has been placed on inquiry into the activities of the political proposals of one who clothes himself in an immunity intended only for purely religious institutions.

Mussolini and Hitler found it effective to attack constantly, using half-truths, myths and complete vicious lies and not bothering to back-track and explain, apologize or admit honest error. They preferred to out-clamor those who challenged them in the name of justice, honesty and fact. In their countries it worked.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

ADDING TWO AND TWO? A few things have happened in the political scene which may make it possible at least to begin to put two and two together and see if they add up four. Or to look at the weather vane to see how blows the wind.

The Gallup poll, which has developed a very fine record for the accuracy of its predictions, finds a majority of the citizens do not care for the third-term idea.

The tobacco farmers reject the New Deal farm program, as do the rice growers. The cotton planters support it, but even the government officials do not believe they favor it. It was a matter of financial expediency.

A survey of the small businessmen again finds them firm in the belief that the attack on "big business" really is hurting small business more than the "monopolists."

That there is a growing fear of WPA is not to be denied. There is a growing concern over government expenditure.

Most of this has developed since the primary of last September. The primary itself was an indication that dissatisfaction was abroad in the land, it must be said, at least some small measure. Most of it was, and is, indefinite.

The feeling keeps growing the President is ill-advised. There are the usual crop of vicious reports, propaganda and the like, regarding some of the influences back of the President. They largely may be disregarded by the majority of the voters, upset about business and is casting about for someone to work a change.

All this seems to be in the wind. Perhaps it is too early to put two and two together. But at least, it is possible to see a few straws in the wind.

A WORD FROM TEXAS

I have just spent some time with a businessman from Texas. He is a Louisiana for his own firm in which he is a junior partner. He has traveled the state for 16 years.

"No one in Texas believes Jack Garner ever wants to run for office," he said. "Jack is a politician who prefers to remain in charge of the political machinery. He is a fine person, has character and principles, but he is a party man and he doesn't care for the cares of office. No one in Texas believes he wants to be President. They do believe he and Jim Farley will get behind the man who is to be the next President, Roosevelt? No, Texas doesn't believe in a third term. They like him all right. They don't like some of the men around him. They don't want a third term and don't believe he will try for it."

So much for that. Cordell Hull, the Tennesseean, probably is the most likely bet as the strongest man in the picture. The people have confidence in him. They think he would not be shoved around by too many people.

Meanwhile, Bennett Clark's cause is being handled well. He is not a candidate but his name is mentioned whenever candidates are mentioned.

Roosevelt made one mistake which strong men too often make—he did not build up anyone else in the party to take his place. He has a number of conservatives to consider but none of his own leanings who would have a chance. He cannot win with a "China-man."

THE WPA PROBLEM

No one really understands enough about the WPA. That it filled a necessary place in the scheme of things in 1933 is patent. There probably is every reason to have it continued in some modified form. Whether justly or not, the fact remains a majority of the voters believe it has been extravagant, wasteful, used politically, and is a burden which is ruining the country. I do not mean here to argue the question pro or con, but merely to say that is the growing belief.

There is a conviction we have created a large group which looks upon relief as a profession.

That certain evils were bound to develop along with our quick program of social legislation was inevitable. They will long be requiring corrections.

Certainly the WPA is going to be one of the major battles in the next congress. With the states, most of them, at any rate, needing additional money, it will be difficult to put the major problem of relief back on the states.

All of which helps explain why this never is a dull life. It ought to be, with winter coming on, and congress and state legislatures also due for sessions, one of the most entertaining winter seasons in years.

It Is Strange Chivalry That Won't Let Her Carry a Package But Lets Her Earn The Living

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Old men can remember a time when families in the backwoods had to choose between a hunting trip and a vegetable diet. The ground might be covered with snow and the wind might cut like a knife; but when the smokehouse was empty, one of the boys had to shoulder the gun and go after a deer. It was a chore, and therefore a thing to be dreaded.

Now that hunting is no longer necessary, but expensive and unprofitable, it is called sport. Facing an icy gale is fun. And if there is only one gun in the family, the quarrel among the boys is not to determine who must use it but who may.

A different mental attitude transforms a hard and disagreeable task into a special privilege.

It is a mental attitude that blocks solution of one of our most troublesome problems.

If work is a blessed privilege, it is evident that all citizens have an equal right to share it, and this equality makes the problem of unemployment almost impossible to solve with justice to all; but if work is a hard and unpleasant duty, the problem almost solves itself.

Our first need, therefore, is a new and more natural mental attitude.

Nobody really likes work until habit chains him in a rut. It has always been one of the necessary evils. The poor worked from necessity and everybody envied the "idle rich." Even the most industrious dreamed of making their pile so they could retire. That is the age-old and natural attitude, and the only reason work now seems a privilege is because jobs are scarce.

Let us admit that work is a hardship and a dreary nuisance and observe how the situation clears up.

Some official says there are twelve million jobless men; the last available report says there are thirteen million women "gainfully employed." There you have the problem's solution.

If there is a choice between bearing a hardship and not bearing it, should not the women be the ones to escape it?

If millions must live life easy and live at public expense, in a land where the unwritten law requires that women and children be given first consideration, should not women be the ones to enjoy this advantage?

Finally, Satan finds mischief for idle hands. Four million of the jobless men are under 25—and the young are most likely to be won by radical ideas. If twelve million must be exposed to the temptations of idleness, wouldn't the country be safer if they were of the less rowdy and violent sex?

PLANES DROP FOOD TO MAROONED CREW

18 of Wrecked Ship's Company of 20 Found on Alaska Beach.

SEATTLE, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Three planes dropped supplies today to 18 survivors of the beached motorship Patterson, marooned near Cape Fairweather, Alaska, and reports of a moderating surf increased hopes they might be rescued tomorrow.

Pilot Sheldon Simmons, returning to Juneau after dropping 500 pounds of food and clothing, said he counted 18 men on the beach, thus tending to confirm previous reports two were lost from the 20-man crew.

Two navy planes also dropped supplies to the men, who have been stranded since the 50-year-old vessel grounded early Monday.

MUSCULAR RHEUMATIC PAINS—ACHES

It takes more than "just a salve" to bring speedy relief. It takes a "counter-irritant" like good old soothing, warming Musterole to penetrate the surface skin and help to quickly relieve the painful local congestion and aches due to colds.

Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly. Better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Musterole has been used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. In three strengths: Regular, Children's (mild) and Extra Strong, 40c. All drugists.

MRS. J. C. BROWN DIES IN 74TH YEAR

Last Rites Today for Mother of Tracy O'Neal, Press Photographer.

Mrs. Rosa Lee O'Neal Brown, 73, of 463 Cherokee avenue, S. E., died yesterday at a private hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Brown, the mother of Tracy O'Neal, staff photographer of the Atlanta Georgian, was a native of Pickens county, S. C., but had resided in Atlanta for more than 60 years. Her first husband was the late Will J. O'Neal, former railroad man killed in a train wreck in South Carolina in 1909. Later she married J. C. Brown, well-known Atlanta real estate dealer, who died several years ago.

Surviving, besides Tracy O'Neal, are two other sons, James H. O'Neal and G. W. O'Neal, both of Atlanta; a brother, R. L. Crenshaw, also of this city, and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Brown was an active member of St. Paul's Methodist church. Funeral service will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill, the Rev. J. Lee Allgood officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery under the direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

ATLANTA AVIATORS TO FORM AERO CLUB

Atlanta pilots, commercial and sportsmen, will meet at 7:30 o'clock Monday night to complete plans for the formation of a chapter of the National Aeronautical Association. The chapter will be the first active club here for flying enthusiasts. Permission for the installation of the chapter has already been received from the national association. More than 100 invitations to join have been sent to Atlanta men and women interested in aviation.

U. S. Commissioner E. S. Griffith Dies Suddenly in His Office Here

Final Rites Will Be Held Today in Buchanan.

United States Commissioner Ed. S. Griffith died shortly after nine o'clock yesterday morning at his office in the Federal Building. Death was attributed to heart attack.

In ill health for several years, the 76-year-old commissioner had not missed a day at his office. Yesterday morning, building attaches said, he arrived from his hotel later than usual. He went directly to his office, hung his coat over the back of a chair, and fell to the floor dead.

Appointed to his post in 1928 by Judge Samuel H. Sibley, now a member of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Judge Griffith had been twice reappointed.

A well-known and beloved figure in Atlanta, his death drew expressions of sympathy and sorrow from federal officials, and other friends.

Found By Officials. United States Marshal Charles Cox, whose office adjoins Judge Griffith's, called him a "grand old gentleman and a great citizen. He was a good Christian gentleman," Cox said, "and we shall certainly miss him."

United States Attorney Lawrence S. Camp issued the following statement on learning of Judge Griffith's death:

"The death of Judge Griffith is a great shock to me personally. Our almost daily association for the past five years has added much to the pleasure of performing the duties of the office of United States Attorney. He was kind and fair to all persons charged with law violations, and at every opportunity pointed out the advantages of good citizenship against lives of crime.

"As a lawyer he practiced according to the highest principles of the profession. As a public servant, both as solicitor general and as United States commissioner he fully realized he held positions of public trust, and performed his official duties with ability and with honesty."

He Tempered Justice. As commissioner, Judge Griffith held preliminary hearings for thousands of persons accused of violating federal statutes. Never harsh, Griffith always tempered justice with mercy. A devout man and a believer in humanity, a Bible always lay by the side of his books and papers on his desk.

Born in Paulding county, and educated in the public schools there, Griffith was admitted to the bar in 1892. Before his appointment as commissioner, he had served for 18 years as mayor of Buchanan, Haralson county, and a term as solicitor general of the Tallapoosa circuit superior court.

Several months ago, Judge Griffith swore in Walter Matthews, of Buchanan, his former law partner, as an assistant United States attorney. The act, Judge Griffith said, gave him more pleasure than any official act he had performed in his life. Matthews, his old friend and partner, was out of town yesterday when Griffith died.

Fearless as Prosecutor. As solicitor general, Griffith built up a reputation as a fearless prosecutor, and law enforcement officer, and gained recognition for his prosecution of those implicated in the slaying of Mrs. Robert Stewart, wife of a Draketown Methodist minister.

A Baptist, he was a leader in the work of his church in northwest Georgia, and served as superintendent of the Baptist Sunday school at Buchanan for many years.

His wife, the former Miss Sallie D. Harris, whom he married in 1895, died several years ago. Among other public offices, Griffith sat for two terms in the Georgia house of representatives, and one term in the state senate.

Last rites for him will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Buchanan. The body will lie in state from 12:30 o'clock in the Baptist church at Buchanan.

Surviving are three sons, E. R. Griffith, of Atlanta, an agent of the alcohol tax unit; G. P. Griffith, of Birmingham; and J. L. Griffith, of Commerce, and three daughters, Rachel, of Oxford, Ga.; Vina, of Alma, Ga.; and Iris, of Greenville, S. C.

YULE CELEBRATION SET FOR LAGRANGE

Trade Event Today Expected To Attract 7,000

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. LAGRANGE, Ga., Dec. 14.—The Christmas season in LaGrange will be formally opened tomorrow with a trade celebration jointly sponsored by the LaGrange Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the LaGrange Woman's Club. Approximately 7,000 visitors from throughout west Georgia and east Alabama are expected to visit the city during the day, Henry Milam, Chamber president, states.

The day's shopping program will be featured by special bargains announced by each of 47 stores. A parade by the championship Junior Drum and Bugle Corps of the local American Legion Post is set for mid-afternoon, and the annual singing of carols by LaGrange High school and LaGrange college students will precede and follow the unveiling of a giant lighted Santa Claus and reindeer on the court square at 7 o'clock. Winners in the residential Christmas decorations contest will be announced by Mrs. Jarrell Dunson, president of the LaGrange Woman's Club. Prizes totaling $100 will be distributed.

A square dance will begin in the court square at 8 o'clock and continue until 11 o'clock.

PRESENTS ARE SOUGHT FOR GRADY PATIENTS

Approximately 400 patients in Grady hospital will have a merry Christmas despite illness if Atlantans respond to an appeal of Mrs. J. W. Morrison, president of the woman's auxiliary of the hospital.

She urged yesterday that generous-hearted Atlantans send some little gift to be placed on the breakfast trays on Christmas morning. She said the gifts should be marked for a man or woman and should be addressed to Miss Mattie Ridgeway, superintendent of the Grady diet kitchen. A similar practice was followed last year.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

DR. FISCHER'S GIFT.

Sunday's papers carried the story of Dr. L. C. Fischer's gift of his hospital and country estate to the people of Georgia, the property to be held in trust with a group of well-known business and professional men composing the advisory board. The entire property is estimated to be worth approximately a million dollars. Those who read the story in the Sunday papers have a clear understanding of the purpose and the terms of the gift.

I think it is one of the most magnanimous gifts I have ever known about. I shall never forget an hour I spent with Dr. Fischer about a year ago when he was studying the details of this plan to give the hospital and his beautiful country estate to the people. We were sitting in his private office at the hospital. On the walls were exquisite pictures of the flowers of every imaginable type at the 133-acre estate at Chamblee—a place where Dr. and Mrs. Fischer had sought to co-operate with God in making a home of beauty and peace.

And on his desk was the blue print of the spacious hospital buildings. He looked at the pictures and then at the blue prints, and said:

"I have worked hard at this job, and I have enjoyed every day of it. My friends have been good to me, and have helped me realize my dreams. Best of all, God has blessed me. And now I want to fix it so this hospital will go on when I am dead, helping humanity lift the load. And I want the flowers to bloom for those who love the beautiful. If this plan will guarantee the continuance of the hospital and the flowers, I shall be happy, and Mrs. Fischer will be happy."

I shall never forget the look on his face as he spoke. There was the unmistakable note of victory in his voice and satisfaction in his face. It seemed to me the very essence of a deep and abiding sense of achievement.

For any gift God gives to me I cannot pay.

Gifts are most mine when I most give them all away.

God's gifts are like His flowers which show their right to stay, By giving all their bloom and fragrance away.

Riches are not gold, nor land, estates or marble.

The only wealth that is, is found in human hearts.

BARKLEY ASSERTS F.D.R. WILL STRESS LAW IMPROVEMENT

Will Not Recommend a 'Lot of New Stuff,' Majority Leader Declares After White House Talk

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(UP)—President Roosevelt will confine his program for the seventy-sixth congress largely to improving existing New Deal laws and will not recommend a "lot of new stuff," Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, said today after a White House conference.

He said that he discussed with the President the subject of taxes, proposed changes in the Wagner labor act, the farm program, national defense and kindred problems. The conversation was general, he said, and no final decisions were reached. The chief executive is to review the legislative situation next week with other congressional lieutenants, including Vice President John N. Garner.

"We had a frank discussion," Barkley told reporters. "I believe the program will be confined largely to amending and correcting existing laws. I doubt if there will be a lot of new stuff."

He did not reveal what New Deal laws will be up for amendment. He also was vague on the subject of taxes, saying merely that it probably will be necessary, for revenue purposes, to continue certain "nuisance" levies that are due to expire. He doubted that new legislation would be needed to carry out the administration's naval expansion program, but said a different situation exists concerning its army, aviation and anti-aircraft plans.

While he was agreeable to demands by Senator James J. Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, who piloted the government reorganization bill through the senate last session only to see it killed in the house, that the legislation be revised in the house at the coming session, Barkley warned against a situation which would create a legislative jam.

He did not see as a New Deal defeat the rejection by tobacco and rice farmers of crop control provisions included in the new farm act.

The neutrality act was not surveyed, Barkley said, because Mr. Roosevelt is to discuss it soon with Chairman Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, of the senate foreign relations committee.

MOSELEY ATTACKS DEFENSE PLANS

Far East and enter an agreement with Japan to "guarantee peace in the Pacific" so that Japan can "face Russia in the Far East with complete confidence."

The speaker denounced administration policy in Europe as giving indirect support to Soviet Russia and said that Leon Trotsky, while Soviet war commissar, "was himself responsible for the massacre of more than 3,000,000 Christians."

"Atrocious Undertaking." He described the Russian Bolshevik revolution as an "atrocious undertaking" and said that "large sums of money were furnished from this city of New York to support" it.

As for Germany and Italy, the general believed, "it would be well for us to mind our own business in Europe today."

"Our interests there should not be in the internal affairs of any nation, but rather in the maintenance of a balance of power assuring peace in our hemisphere."

Referring to the "enemy within the gates of Pan-America" the general said: "Barney Baruch... gave out alarming statements in reference to dangers in South America, indicating that Uncle Sam would have to launch out a gigantic national defense program to save ourselves from Germany... If Mr. Baruch was speaking under orders from his chief in Washington for the purpose of drawing public attention away from the New Deal... he did a fine job."

World's Largest Radium Shipment Planned in U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The new National Cancer Institute will receive in a few days what officials describe as the world's largest single shipment of radium.

Approximately $200,000 worth of the precious substance, weighing only a fifth of an ounce, will arrive from New York in lead containers weighing several tons.

The radium will be inclosed in 1,245 hollow needles and officials here will measure the content of each needle. The measuring is expected to require at least six months.

TALIAFERRO COUNTEY FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga., Dec. 14.—T. O. Gunn, 79, prominent Taliaferro county, was found shot to death in a bedroom at his home here late yesterday, a few minutes after his wife and son, attending him during an illness, left his bedside to go into another room.

Surviving him are his wife; four sons, Professor Fred Gunn, dean of men at Northwest Georgia College, Carrollton; Captain Clem Gunn, of Fort Barrancas, Fla., who was at home on leave; Captain Claude Gunn, of Fort McPherson, Atlanta, and R. W. Gunn, of Dayton, Tenn., and one daughter, Mrs. M. R. Saggus, of Crawfordville.

FORMER SOLON NAMED MAYOR OF CLARKSVILLE

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

CLARKSVILLE, Ga., Dec. 14. Dr. J. B. Jackson, former Habersham county representative in the general assembly, yesterday defeated B. H. Graves, editor of the Tri-County Advertiser, to win election as mayor of Clarksville. The vote: Jackson, 164; Graves, 69.

Results in the council race to fill three seats, were as follows: J. H. Ashbury, 229; I. N. Foster Sr., 161; G. T. Daniel, 136, and G. C. Oliver, 133.

ELLAVILLE SELECTS MAYOR, COUNCILMEN

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

ELLAVILLE, Ga., Dec. 14.—(AP) Results of the municipal election here showed M. C. Hill, G. H. Stevens, Eugene Dixon, M. L. Arrington and Wilson Tondee successful candidates for city council.

S. W. Miles was unopposed for mayor, succeeding W. T. Tondee, as was Charlie Battle, re-elected recorder without opposition.

"Personally... I feel that this propaganda of war hysteria is a crime."

The general believed that the "defensive weakness" of the United States lies "principally right in Washington, as our administration gives aid and comfort to our enemies who are operating within our gates under a definite mission to destroy our present form of government."

"As to the protection of Pan-America against any threat," he said, "the answer is in sea power, a proper merchant marine and in the subsidizing of our trade against any nation threatening us whether that trade be by barter or on a money basis."

"Air power will avail little unless... we can establish suitable naval bases in the south. Our interests in South America should keep Germany off the west coast of South Africa."

"The American people... have the character to accomplish all this, but it will take a leadership that is loyally American throughout."

The general believed that "individuals who are plotting the destruction of the United States" will be eliminated by American groups such as "the solid Protestant south of pioneer stock, the Catholic church with her 20,000,000 Christian, patriotic Americans," the farmers, "the law-abiding, conservative workmen within the American Federation of Labor," war veterans and other "effective, Christian, patriotic groups."

He saw these groups as ready for a "campaign which will run enemies into the Atlantic and the Pacific," and said that "if force is necessary, it exists, for all of them still possess that weapon which hangs lawfully over the mantelpiece."

Jitterbug, Jazz, Ragtime, Swing They're All Same -- Gene Austin

Just Fast Tempo Music With Dressed Up Name, Asserts Crooner, First Dubbed as Such When Singing at Georgia Theater in 1928; He's Visitor Here.

Jitterbug, jazz, ragtime, swing—it's all just fast-tempo music with a dressed up name to Gene Austin who crooned the ballads "Girl of My Dreams," "Tonight You Belong to Me" and "My Blue Heaven" indelibly into the memory of the romantics a decade ago.

Gene was the original crooner and was first dubbed as such while singing at the Georgia theater here in 1928.

"The ballads are always the same," Austin said. "They are constant, but this jitterbug music is a fad."

"Music travels in cycles. About every ten years, someone revives the fast tempo music. But all this jitterbug stuff still remains the Charleston to me."

Austin today appears in the pink of condition. His blue eyes have the old sparkle but his brown hair is turning slightly gray. He was in Atlanta to attend a midnight banquet given by his old friend, Judie Johnston, at one of the downtown hotels. With him were Candy 'n' Cocoa, his stage troupe stooges, and Joan Brooks, his personality singer.

The troupe is making a one-day stand, four of the south current with the showing of Austin's most recent picture, "Songs and Saddles," an open air, semi-western in which the entire troupe appear. Several times Austin has retired but he always comes back. In between the scores for several moving pictures including the last two made by Mae West.

"Girl of My Dreams" and "My Blue Heaven" are his most popular request numbers.

"I guess I like 'My Blue Heaven' about the best of all," Gene admitted.

Though to many in this jitterbug age, the name Gene Austin means nothing, there are but few who fail to recall these songs the crooner made popular years before Rudy Vallee and Will Osborne began their feud—each claiming to be the original crooner.

Austin didn't claim—he was. And there are victrola records to prove it.

this year—because they know they are helping worthwhile families, and because they like to help "put people back on their feet." But, still, there is plenty of work for the small contributions to do. Maybe you can't give a whole lot. But you can give something.

If you wish, you can remain anonymous. We mean that. If you send in a check, only H. H. Trotter, vice president and business manager, who acts as treasurer of the Ten Opportunities fund, needs to know what name is signed on that check.

A Secret Forever. If you write him a letter asking that your name not be used in print, it's a secret forever. If you do not so specify, your contribution will be acknowledged as the progress of the Ten Opportunities fund is reported.

Remember, when you are considering the question of giving early at Christmas time, that every family in the Ten Opportunities is one which has been selected as the most promising and needy family that can be found by the Family Welfare Society.

Do Your Christmas Giving Early!

her money and home for her son, and strained relations that resulted have practically broken up the family circle.

Mrs. Q. after the crash, went to live with her son, his wife and her grandchildren. The son is barely able to make enough to feed his own wife and sons and daughters. He was not a particularly loyal son to his own mother, we must admit, because, in some way, he allowed Mrs. Q. to feel she was imposing on him.

No matter what his sacrifice, he should not have allowed that! But he did.

Mrs. Q. starved herself—deliberately in order that the son might be more food for her son's family and because she felt if she did not eat much, her son wouldn't think she was such a burden. When they sat down at the table for a meal, Mrs. Q. would take the very smallest helping of a few things. She would nibble away and try to appear as though she was just not hungry. Perhaps she fooled the family, but she didn't fool her stomach.

One day recently, she was walking on the street. Her strength was exhausted. She fell to the pavement in a dead faint. The doctor revealed what was the matter.

"Why, this woman is starving," he exclaimed.

And that resulted in the case of Mrs. Q. being offered Atlanta's as their Opportunity No. 5.

The Family Welfare Society is trying to work out things for Mrs. Q. and her son and daughter. Efforts are being made to patch up the relations among them. When this is done, perhaps the son and daughter together can help Mrs. Q. and make her happy for the remainder of her life.

Needs Special Diet. But in the meantime, Mrs. Q. has to have some help. She has to have a special diet, because she starved herself for so long. The proper nourishment for this unselfish mother must be

DEMOCRATS POLLED 49 PER CENT VOTE

Drop From 60.2 Per Cent Revealed in Compilation of November 8 Ballots.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP) A countrywide compilation showed today that Democrats polled 49 per cent of the vote for members of the house of representatives in the November 8 election. Republicans received 47.8 per cent, and minor party candidates 3.2 per cent.

The Democratic figure fell from 60.2 per cent of the party's presidential vote in 1936 and 53.4 per cent of the vote for representatives in 1934.

The tabulation, compiled principally from officially certified returns, showed the 1938 vote for representatives aggregated 35,815,720. This was the largest ever recorded in an off-year election. Democratic candidates received 17,559,081 votes, Republicans 17,129,557, and other candidates 1,127,082.

Republicans achieved their greatest gains in the east and midwest, polling 51 per cent of the vote in both sections. In 1936, they received only 40.4 per cent of the presidential vote in the east, and in 1934 they polled 43.3 per cent of the vote for representatives.

The party received only 38.4 per cent of the 1936 vote and 43.3 per cent of the 1934 vote.

Democrats maintained pluralities in the west, with 51.9 per cent of the total vote, and in the south, with 77.3 per cent.

In 1936 the Democrats received 66.0 per cent of the western vote against 54 per cent in 1934. The party's 1938 percentage in the south compared with 75.4 per cent in 1936 and 77 per cent in 1934.

The latter figures reflected the usual Republican voting decline in the south in off-years.

MEXICO, JAPAN PLAN $1,000,000 DEAL IN OIL

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Mexico was reliably reported today to be negotiating a $1,000,000 barter oil deal with Japan in a vigorous drive to find foreign markets for her gushing wells expropriated from foreign companies.

While it was denied at the government's petroleum department that a deal was pending, other sources said negotiations had been underway for weeks on a basis that would provide Japan with $1,000,000 worth of oil annually.

REA FUNDS ALLOTTED.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—The Rural Electrification Administration today included two Georgia co-operatives in announcing $3,447,000 for 30 projects in 14 states.

The Taylor County Membership Corporation at Reynolds, Ga., received $10,000 for wiring, and the Three-Notch Electric Membership Corporation at Donaldsonville, $20,000 for wiring.

provided. She must be made to feel she is no burden on anyone. She can not enjoy life if she must continue to think she is imposing on the son. The situation is such that she cannot go to live with her daughter.

Only $20 a month is needed to solve the problem of lonely, lovely Mrs. Q. That much will be enough to pay for her special diet and enough to make her feel some degree of independence from her son. If she could contribute that much toward her support, she could be happy again.

Next year, Mrs. Q. becomes old enough for old-age assistance, if it is necessary then. Until then, though, she's in a "fix." Won't the friends of the Ten Opportunity families help her out?

W. V. Crowley Named Treasurer Of President's Birthday Group

Fulton National Bank Vice President Is Appointed by Rivers.

William V. Crowley, vice president of the Fulton National Bank, yesterday accepted appointment as treasurer of the Georgia Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday.

Crowley was named by Governor Rivers, who is chairman of the state committee. His appointment followed the naming of L. Thomas ("Pat") Gillen as executive director of the campaign.

"I am delighted to serve in so worthy a cause," Crowley told the Governor yesterday. "Georgia made an enviable record last year in aiding the fight against infantile paralysis, and I feel that we should do even better this year."

Governor Rivers and Gillen are completing the state organization as rapidly as possible. It is planned to name a chairman in all congressional districts, each of whom will assist the various county chairmen in their district in planning the celebrations.

The Governor said he expected to be able to announce the organization personnel before the end of the week.

HILLMAN REPORTS LOCALS BACK TWOC

Says Telegrams Repudiate Gorman in Split.

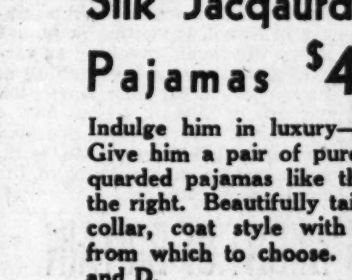

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO's Textile Workers Organizing Committee, said today he had received "a flood of telegrams" repudiating Francis Gorman's efforts to lead the United Textile Workers out of the CIO.

Hillman said locals everywhere were testing saying to their loyalty, and proving that Gorman "has no organization and no following."

Hillman announced the TWOC had "fired" Gorman from its advisory council. Previously, Gorman had announced his resignation. The TWOC chairman charged too, Gorman was attempting to split the TWOC organization at a time when it was seeking restoration of a 12 1-2 per cent wage cut for 150,000 woolen and worsted workers.

Fain Peek, for the last three years executive secretary of the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce, yesterday tendered his resignation to the board of directors, according to an announcement by W. A. Horne Jr., president. He will leave office January 1.

Among the projects drawing support of the Junior Chamber during Mr. Peek's tenure of office were the passage of the state drivers' license law and establishment of the highway patrol; advancement of work of widening and paving the Atlanta-Marietta highway and the establishment of the DeKalb county state game preserve for which the junior commerce organization furnished the fencing.

Gable Gets Tangled in Red Tape When He Tries To Cut Nuptial Ties

What With This and That It Will Probably Be Sometime in 1940 Before He and Carole Can Say a Soulful "I Do."

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14.—(P)—Technicalities of legal procedure, it appeared today, may prevent Hollywood from hearing Carol Lombard and Clark Gable say "I do" until some time in 1940.

The film actor's $286,000 property settlement with his second wife, Maria Langham Gable, has been approved mutually, but requires a court's approval before Mrs. Gable can file suit for divorce.

Gable said his wife, from whom he has been separated for three years, would seek a divorce as soon as a ruling is obtained on the legality of the settlement. He did not say he intended to marry Actress Lombard, but his friends asserted they were sure he would as soon as he legally was free.

Mrs. Gable, after conferring with her attorneys, said the state of Gable that he wanted a legal separation "came to me as a complete surprise—I knew nothing about it until I read it in the newspapers; I have not talked to Mr. Gable and know nothing about his intentions."

The settlement matter, when submitted to a superior court today, was put on the pre-trial calendar for December 21, when it will be assigned to a judge. Court attaches said a ruling before January 1 is unlikely.

If Mrs. Gable brings her action here some time after the first of the year, and the divorce is granted, California law requires a full year elapse before the interlocutory decree becomes final. Then both will be free to marry again.

Mrs. Gable might, however, file suit in another state, attorneys pointed out.

The Lombard-Gable marriage, when and if, will be her second and his third. She was formerly married to William Powell, of the movies, and Gable's first wife was Josephine Dillon, who operates a dramatic school here.

Goering's "National Zeitung" added that "the Suez canal is not worth so much to the French and British shareholders that they would care to defend it with weapons."

7. Disclosure in Paris that Britain and France have offered to serve as mediators in any German-Lithuanian dispute over the status of Memel, but that Germany has made no reply to the offer. CITY LEADERSHIP LAID TO FORESIGHT

Frederick G. Storey, New Ad. Club President, Cites Intelligent Selling.

Intelligent selling both by manufacturers and retailers is responsible for business being better in Atlanta than in other sections of the country.

This statement was made yesterday by Frederick G. Storey, advertising executive, in a speech following his election as president-elect of the Atlanta Advertising Club.

Storey, a firm believer in newspaper advertising, said: "We are lucky to live in Atlanta, where merchants and manufacturers employ good sales methods, which result in good business. Intelligent selling can best be done through good advertising."

Storey succeeds Richard H. Rich, department store executive, who was presented with a gift in recognition of his service in 1938.

Other officers chosen included Legare Davis, first vice president; Stewart Gelders, second vice president; Marvin Cannon, third vice president; Mrs. Hazel W. English, secretary; Tom McDonald, treasurer; Mrs. Hubert W. Anderson, executive secretary, and Avery Austin, sergeant at arms.

Santa Georgia To Give Youths $100,000 Gift

Yuletide in Georgia this year finds the state government in a role of "Santa Claus" to a "chance" to more than 12,000 girls and boys who, because of dead or erty-stricken parents, have no means of support.

Santa's bag, loaded with $100,000 from the State Welfare Department, will be opened for 12,214 children on the relief rolls during December. The awards average $8 per month for the children who, because of dead or poverty-stricken parents, have no means of support.

Launched as part of the welfare program of the Rivers administration, Welfare Director Lamar Murdaugh termed the aid to dependent children as "so far-reaching and comprehensive in its aims and possibilities that its full effect will be felt throughout the lives of the children whom it benefits as well as society as a whole."

Most of these children are located in rural sections, where Santa otherwise would have difficult roads to travel.

"This phase of the welfare program," Murdaugh said, "did not receive maximum attention at first but it has been demonstrated that no more constructive piece of work is being done by any agency than the state's aid to these boys and girls who, without this assistance, might be left to shift for themselves, their chances to grow into useful citizens destroyed, converting them into a menace instead of an asset to society."

All children on the welfare rolls are under 16 years of age.

SOUTHERN TO CANCEL TWO LOCAL TRAINS

The Georgia Public Service Commission yesterday announced that it had granted a permit to the Southern Railway to discontinue two local trains between Atlanta and Birmingham, provided that other trains are required to stop for passengers previously carried by the locals.

The trains are No. 25 and No. 26. The former now leaves Atlanta at 9:10 o'clock a. m., for Birmingham while the latter arrives at 4:55 o'clock p. m., from the Alabama city. The trains will be discontinued January 2.

Premier Stanley Baldwin as a guttersnipe that "whoever joins the ranks of agitators against the Third Reich must reckon with being strangled."

Chamberlain's pointed warning of Britain's grave concern over any attempt to upset the Mediterranean status quo tended to confirm an announcement in Paris that France had obtained a pledge of British military and moral support in event of conflict.

Under the unhappy augury of the Nazi banquet boycott, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German Reichsbank and economic and financial authority, arrived in London at 8 a. m. from Berlin to negotiate with Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and discuss financial matters of urgent importance.

Schacht intended to talk over the possibility of an international agreement for emigration of German Jews under a plan permitting Jews to take a portion of their possessions with them and at the same time permit Germany to obtain enormous export orders from abroad.

The Daily Express said that Norman was prepared to ask Schacht to agree to a loan whereby English pounds sterling would be given to emigrating German Jews. Repayment of the loan with interest would be charged against the sterling balances owed to Germany under the Anglo-German trade clearing account, the Daily Express said.

It seemed hardly likely, however, that any plans which Schacht might put forward would find an agreeable reception because of the banquet incident.

MILK BOTTLE PRICE CONTROL REVEALED

Method of Fixing Level Said To Extend to Other Types.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(P)—The temporary national economic committee learned today that a single manufacturing concern, the Thatcher Glass Company, Inc., establishes the price at which at least 70 per cent of the nation's milk bottles are sold.

Another company, the committee was informed, sets the price for the sale of fruit jars, a third for liquor and wine bottles, and others for other types of glassware, with the rest of the industry generally charging the price established.

The information was given by William E. Levis, president of the Owens-Illinois Glass Company, and Walter H. McClure, vice president and sales manager of the Hazel-Atlas Glass Company. The two concerns are, respectively, the largest and second largest producers of glass containers in the country.

(The committee is producing the testimony in an effort to show what can happen in an industry when a company or a group of companies control patents covering essential manufacturing processes.)

"That's just the way prices are fixed," asserted Senator Borah. McClure testified that in similar fashion Ball Brothers' prices were generally followed on fruit jars, Owens-Illinois on liquor and beer bottles and prescription bottles, and his own company, Hazel-Atlas, on "wide-mouthed" drug-store ware.

MONROE DOCTRINE EXPANSION URGED

Colombia's Foreign Minister Urges Widening of Responsibility to All.

LIMA, Dec. 14.—(P)—A Pan-American Monroe Doctrine under which all countries of the Western Hemisphere would assume the burden thus far maintained by the United States alone came before the Pan-American conference today.

Foreign Minister Luis Lopez de Mesa, of Colombia, told the committee for organization of peace that the "Monroe Doctrine" can now be widened to embrace all free America as a subject of responsibility.

Mexican Proposal. Mexico, apparently mindful of controversies with the United States over expropriation of lands and oil properties, followed the lead of Argentina in submitting a resolution asking that the conference reaffirm past decisions that force must not be used for collection of debts between nations.

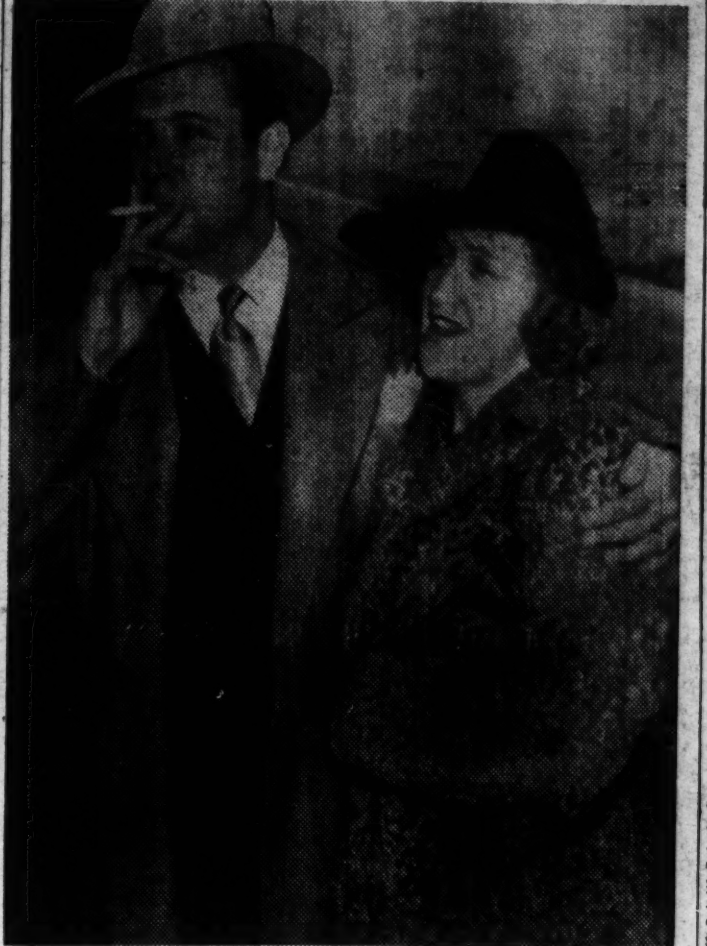

It was believed the resolution had little chance of passage, since there are already sufficient accords and agreements among American states against forcible debt collections. Colombia's project for a League of American Nations seemed likely to be postponed until the next meeting in 1943.

Continental Defense. Behind-the-scenes discussion for reaching a common plan on continental defense went ahead. Secretary of State Cordell Hull conferring on the subject with Dr. Isidoro Ruiz Moreno, chairman of the Argentine delegation. Argentine sources said a defense proposal had not yet been submitted formally because approval of all delegations had to be obtained.

An Argentine-Mexican plan for a declaration calling for an end of the Spanish Civil War narrowed down through discussions to a simple appeal to the Spanish people to end the conflict.

The original idea of offering Pan-American mediation virtually was abandoned because some delegates argued that at the moment when American nations were denouncing any European intervention in the Western Hemisphere they should not attempt to interfere in European affairs. American delegates were interested in getting an interpretation of whether the principle should be applied to the Western Hemisphere or be world-wide because of United States problems of recognition or non-recognition of Ethiopia, Manchukuo and Japanese China conquests.

INFORMATION SOUGHT OF ALBERT UNDERWOOD. Information as to the whereabouts of Albert Underwood, a former resident of Atlanta, is being sought by relatives here.

Mrs. Elsie Parker, a sister, who resides at 255 Woodward avenue, said yesterday that her brother left Atlanta about four years ago. He is described as being about 35 years of age, six feet tall and weighing about 175 pounds. He has blue eyes and brown hair. He is an ex-service man, having served in the army for about nine years.

"TAMERLANE" BRINGS $4,300. NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(P)—A first edition of Edgar Allan Poe's "Tamerlane," published in Boston in 1827 and only recently found at Skowhegan, Maine, was sold for $4,300 today at an auction of the Ernest W. Dunbar collection of books, autographs and manuscripts. James F. Drake was the purchaser.

Snyder also is charged with attempting to kill the two women, who had gone to the home to prepare Alderman's dinner.

Alderman's divorce from his second wife became final last week. She is suing Miss Etting for $150,000 damages, charging the singer stole Alderman's love.

At the trial today, Virginia De Marteau, a masseuse, testified she heard Snyder say last August "If what I think is true is TRUE, I'm going to kill Ruth and Alderman." Mrs. Harold Kaiser said Snyder declared in a night club a week before the shooting that he was "going to get Ruth," but did not mention designs on anyone else. Under cross-examination, she said Snyder was drinking at the time. On the day preceding the night of the shooting, Mrs. Maxine McKinley testified, Snyder refused an invitation to listen to football broadcasts with her and her husband, telling them "I've got business with that Etting dame to-night."

The State Capital is Columbus—The State Population is 6,724,000—Largest City, Cleveland—Its Population, 902,000

DO YOU KNOW . . . THAT Ohio's tire business, largest in the world, totaled 300 million dollars last year?

THAT the capital of Ohio was a "nameless" city for two months until the legislature decided to call it Columbus?

THAT Cleveland ships and receives 2000 lbs. of ore every second of every day?

THAT an Ohio college was the first in any land to open its doors to women and welcome them on an equal footing with men?

7 Crown is Richer . . . "5" is Milder

You know how widely men's tastes can differ. That's why the House of Seagram offers you a choice of Seagram's 7 Crown—or Seagram's 5 Crown.

The richer "7" . . . for all its hearty flavor, is still delightfully light—free from the slightest trace of

But "7" or "5", whichever you may prefer, there is no question of quality when you serve "America's Finest".

Now that Daddy is gone please bring lots of presents to Mother and Sister and me so we will be happy this Christmas

What will the answer be?

What "Christmas" will mean to your family then may depend on what you do now to provide for their future. If additional life insurance is needed to assure them happy Christmases, and dependable income to meet their needs through the years, now is the time to plan and act. This Christmas, give future financial security to them, peace of mind to yourself. Arrange now to discuss this with your life underwriter.

CHURCH EDUCATION UNIFICATION VIEWED

Methodists Discuss Future of 140 Institutions; Southerners Attend.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—(AP)—Unification of 140 educational institutions of the three branches of the Methodist church, representing a $300,000,000 investment, was discussed today by a committee on education which included 20 men from the three units.

Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, of Nebraska and Iowa, said the group also planned an educational program, and distribution of literature and curriculum material for the 30,000 Methodist churches of the nation.

The committee and nine other groups will report at the unification conference of 900 delegates, in Kansas City, Mo., in April, Bishop Oxnam said. The three branches, the Methodist Episcopal church, Methodist Episcopal church South, and Methodist Protestant church, are to be united into the Methodist church.

Bishop Oxnam said committee-men attending the meeting included William Preston Few, president of Duke University, Durham, N. C.; John L. Easton, president of Albion College, Albion, Mich.; and Bishop Paul Kern, of the Southern Methodist church, Greensboro, N. C.

RAGSDALE FETES 200 WITH DINNER

Commission Chairman Entertains Officials and Employees of Fulton.

By HERMAN HANCOCK.
Commands of County Commission Chairman J. A. Ragsdale, who incidentally is the retiring co-boss of the Fulton county police department, pack considerable authority.

That was demonstrated yesterday as more than 200 members of the county departments, judges, solicitors and just plain hired help ate barbecue, fried chicken and all the accessories at a dinner tendered by Ragsdale.

Several days ago, Ragsdale and County Police Chief George Mathieson held what many considered an informal and important conference. Mathieson is the other half of the boss of the county department.

Fraught With Food.
It developed yesterday, however, that it was fraught with possibilities and plenty of food for all who attended.

Ragsdale informed those present that he just wanted to express his thanks to the department, and to others for their co-operation with the police department. He, however, was out-thanked by Mathieson and out-praised by judges, solicitors and department heads, who heaped many compliments on him and others for the fine conduct of the department for the year.

It was one of those give-and-take propositions—Ragsdale gave the dinner and the guests gave the thanks. All in all it did demonstrate a fine spirit of co-operation and liaison between the law enforcement agencies of the county.

Wells Praises Police.
Praise for Fulton police in preventing accidents was given by Jere A. Wells, superintendent of Fulton county schools, who said that in the last 14 years there had been no fatal accidents among Fulton county school children.

Other speakers at the dinner included Walter C. Hendrix, county attorney; Mayor Hartsfield, County Commissioners George F. Longino and Ed L. Almand, Charles G. Grambling, president of the Georgia Federation of Trades; Dewey L. Johnson, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades; Judge Paul S. Etheridge, Judge Jesse M. Wood, Judge Luther Z. Rosser, Solicitor General John A. Boykin and John L.

McClelland, solicitor of the criminal court of Fulton county.

Mayor Takes Jibes.
Incidentally, Mayor Hartsfield was present and took jibes about the 25-mile speed law limitation in his stride. He refused to weaken even under "cross examination."

George F. Longino, chairman of the public works committee of the commission, announced a barbecue dinner at Lakemoor, Roswell road Thursday night, December 22, at 7:30 o'clock.

Attaches of the municipal court of Atlanta, Fulton division, will entertain informally December 30 at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel. The reception will be an observance of the 25th anniversary of the court.

legislature "who are facing a rather serious dilemma" in considering legislation to be proposed for financing the public welfare and other phases of the administration program.

Optimistic, Spivey declared "the people of Georgia should not look with fear on the coming session of the legislature. Problems facing the administration will be solved correctly."

Governor Rivers indicated the assembly would be asked to complete the eleemosynary expansion program with particular reference to the hospital here when he said in a dedication address:

"We have no intention of passing this institution's problems on to the next administration, and even if we did, it would be impossible. The place is falling to pieces now."

"More Funds Needed."

State Senator Paul Lindsay, of Atlanta, instrumental in obtaining federal funds to help the building program for eleemosy-nary institutions, asserted "at the dedication of the $4,000,000 recently approved for the institution will care for its present conditions but it does not care for the future. We must plan for that, too."

The Governor was presented by Representative-elect J. H. Ennis, of Baldwin county.

The Governor also dedicated four new buildings on the campus of the Georgia State College for Women, after which a dance was given for him and visiting legislators.

The new buildings at G. S. C. W are a $100,000 physical education building, in which the dance was held. A $100,000 teacher training building, $60,000 music building and $125,000 dormitory named for Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the University System.

Dr. Sanford accepted the buildings for the system and H. T. Cole, regional director of the FWA, which furnished part of building funds, participated in the exercises.

Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Manry To Arrive For Visit to Father and Sister

By Sally Forth.

AMONG the interesting Christmas visitors arriving in the city next week are Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Manry; their daughters, Dorothy and Louise Manry, and their son, John P. Manry, of Allahabad, India. The quintet will be the guests of Dr. Manry's father, William T. Manry Sr., and his sister, Miss Anne Manry, at their home on Seventh street, this being their first visit to Atlanta in six years.

Dr. Manry and his family arrived from India last September to spend the winter in Cambridge, Mass., where the former is engaged in teaching. Mrs. Manry, incidentally, is a native of Cambridge and was before her marriage Margaret King, daughter of the late Professor E. S. King, professor of astronomy at Harvard University.

Dr. and Mrs. Manry were married in June, 1915, and they left in September of that year for Allahabad, where Dr. Manry was sent by the Northern Presbyterian board as a doctor of philosophy at Christian College. They have resided in India since that time and their four children were born there. Their 20-year-old son, Robert, who is a student at Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio, will not accompany his parents to Atlanta. Before coming to Antioch, he attended Ligan University in Canton, China, having left there only two days before the Sino-Japanese war broke out. He spent last Christmas with his grandfather and his aunt in Atlanta. His brother, John, 16, his sister, Dorothy, is 13, and Louise is 8.

The Manrys will leave next July to return to Allahabad, where Dr. Manry will resume his teaching at Christian College. He and his family will form the inspiration for numerous informal gatherings of their Atlanta friends and relatives during their holiday visit.

READER'S DIGEST this month saw fit to reproduce something from the pen of an Atlanta girl, Mary Knight. Though Mary, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Lamar Knight, has not made her home here for several years, society still claims her as one of its most gifted and charming members.

Under a heading called "Amazing Interludes," the magazine reproduces a thrilling excerpt from Mary's "Girl Reporter in Paris." It relates a hair-raising incident that befell her during a visit to England, and the enterprising young writer tells it so cleverly that it is small wonder it attracted the attention of The Digest.

After a spectacular career as a reporter, a United Press correspondent, an author, and magazine editor, which took her to practically every country on the globe, Mary is now making her home in New York, where she is engaged in publicity work. Her Atlanta friends await with interest news of her next venture in the literary world.

WHEN members of the Emory Glee Club sang Christmas carols last Sunday afternoon at Glenn Memorial auditorium they were totally unaware that a trio of young couples was trilling its favorite carols in the near-by Theology chapel on the "quad-range."

Singers in the latter group included a well-known back on Tech's football team and a Harvard graduate.

Upon their arrival at the scene of the Glee Club program, the sextet discovered that not even standing room was available. Having anticipated a musical afternoon, the young people refused to be outdone. They strolled about in search of the chapel (where one of the couples will wed in the spring) and eventually discovered a piano. After singing several Christmas carols, it was decided that the Tech man should sing alone, as his tenor voice was unusually melodious. Visitors wandering about the campus were attracted to the chapel doors upon hearing the mellow tones of the young man singing the beloved carol, "Silent Night."

Listeners, Sally hears, opined that the glee clubs of Tech and Emory are missing an unusual opportunity if they do not persuade the song enthusiast to join their musical ranks.

NUMBERED among former Atlantans returning here for the brilliant Nine O'Clocks' ball on December 30 are Laura and Burnham McGeehe. They will come to Atlanta directly from Beaufort, S. C., where they will spend the Christmas holidays with Laura's parents. Dr. and Mrs. Michael Hoke, in their handsome colonial home on the river, where these former Atlantans established residence a few years ago.

Laura and Burnham, as you know, reside in Youngstown, Ohio, where they moved a few weeks ago from Dallas, Texas, the city in which they have lived since their marriage here in 1936.

According to letters received from Laura by Atlanta friends, she and Burnham have completed the decoration of their new apartment in Youngstown and are having much pleasure in making friends in their new abode.

"Don't Let Diet Take Starch Out of You," Says Miss Kain

My Day: "Dreams Do Come True," Says Taxi Driver

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—Yesterday morning I attended the first of the series of concerts which Mrs. Lawrence Townsend arranges for Washington audiences every winter. Mr. Richard Crooks is always very popular and I enjoyed Mr. Robert Nicholson, the new baritone from Australia, very much also. In fact, their duet together at the close was perfectly delightful. The new young Hungarian violinist, Mr. Robert Viro, only 18 years old, played charmingly and gives great promise for the future. I was grateful that I could stay to the end and not have to take a train to New York city, as I feared when I first looked out on a gray sky. Flying makes many things possible, but trains do have one advantage of being able to operate under weather conditions that would keep one out of the air.

I came on to New York city to make a speech at the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Science on the "Citizen in the Community," a subject which I am very grateful to have an opportunity to talk about just now, because it seems to me to have assumed greater importance than ever before in view of present world conditions.

Today I spoke at an early luncheon at the Men's City Club of New York and flew back in time for tea at the White House.

I almost forgot to tell you an amusing little incident that happened to me in New York city last week. I came out of a hotel on 34th street and found that my brother's car, which was supposed to meet me, was not there. Because several people were with me, we attracted attention and before I knew it a small crowd began to gather. I decided that I had better not delay, and stopped a passing taxi and jumped in. At the next red light, the taxi driver turned around and said: "This is an interesting day for me, Mrs. Roosevelt, one of my dreams has come true."

I supposed I looked a little surprised, for he proceeded to explain that a year ago he had dreamed that he had walked into a restaurant and sat down at a table and found me sitting there. He was impressed by the coincidence that he had picked me up on a street in just about the locality where he had dreamed he had found me eating! He was going home, he said, "... to tell the wife that dreams come true."

Mrs. William Brown Meloney has been staying with us for a couple of days and it is a joy to have anyone of such keen intelligence and vivid interest in the house. In this case, I am particularly happy, because she has been ill for many months and this is to me a fulfillment of the hope which I have had, that she would be able to carry on her full share of work again.

My personal maid, Mabel Haley, had to go to a hospital for a slight operation, and I felt a real responsibility, for I think Mabel felt that if I said something ought to be done, that was the final word of authority. The doctors were more than kind and everything has gone well. I am happy to say, but I never like operations nor the time one spends in a waiting room while they go on.

"They Will Mope In Their 'Teens'"

By Dr. William Brady.

In some parts of the country simple goitre is present in more than one-third of all school girls and more than one-fifth of all school boys, due to insufficient iodine in food and drink. When children get a suitable iodine ration they are much less likely to have enlarged neck.

Many girls and some boys in their early 'teens, whether they have any thyroid enlargement or not, begin to mope at a time when they should naturally or normally be full of the vivacity of youth and the joy of living. Parents worry about them needlessly. There is always plenty to worry about, in bringing up children, but if your young son or daughter of 12 to 15 begins to mope and pine and is inclined to melancholy and doleful day-dreaming, don't recall that your uncle went insane—we all had more or less of that in the family—and don't worry about some secret vice, for there is no ground for that notion—but give the child the benefit of medical care. Let your doctor examine the child particularly for incipient tuberculosis. Meanwhile see that the child gets a suitable iodine ration—say a drop or two or three drops of common tincture of iodine, dropped from the glass rod in the iodine vial, in a drink of water once a week the year around or each every day for a month in each of the four seasons of the year.

Even in cases of exophthalmic goitre (Basedow's disease, "toxic goitre, inward goitre"), the symptoms of which are sometimes difficult to distinguish from those of incipient pulmonary tuberculosis, a suitable iodine ration seems to have only beneficial effects. In the goitre belt, particularly in Michigan, the use of iodized salt in place of common salt by a large portion of the population (by recommendation of the Michigan health authorities) has brought about a definite decrease in the number, or proportion of operations for goitre in that part of the country.

In a communication from "the tired college girl's" mother, which I printed in my column, the value of an iodine ration as one remedy for what another doctor feared might be "nervous" or "neurasthenia" is indicated. The tired college girl's mother wrote: "My 16-year-old daughter had been under the doctor's care for more than a year for anemia. That was overcome by the doctor's treatment but she still suffered from a kind of chronic fatigue which seemed impossible to overcome. She had been ready for college since September but unable to go because of this great lassitude. I gave her the Iodine ration according to the instructions in your monograph. The result has been simply unbelievable. The doctor told me to keep right on with it. She is very happy and I am so grateful. ... she was so tired she couldn't enjoy life as other young people do. Now she is bubbling over."

I repeat, in my judgment everybody who is not under medical care should take a regular iodine ration. If you are under medical care for any particular trouble, ask your physician about it. Youngsters in their teens should be "bubbling over," not moody and lackadaisical as so many of them are, just for want of a wee drop of iodine.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Great Moments in History.

It seems far out of line for a health advisor to recommend eating any such indigestible thing as buckwheat pancakes. How can you possibly justify (H.T.H.)

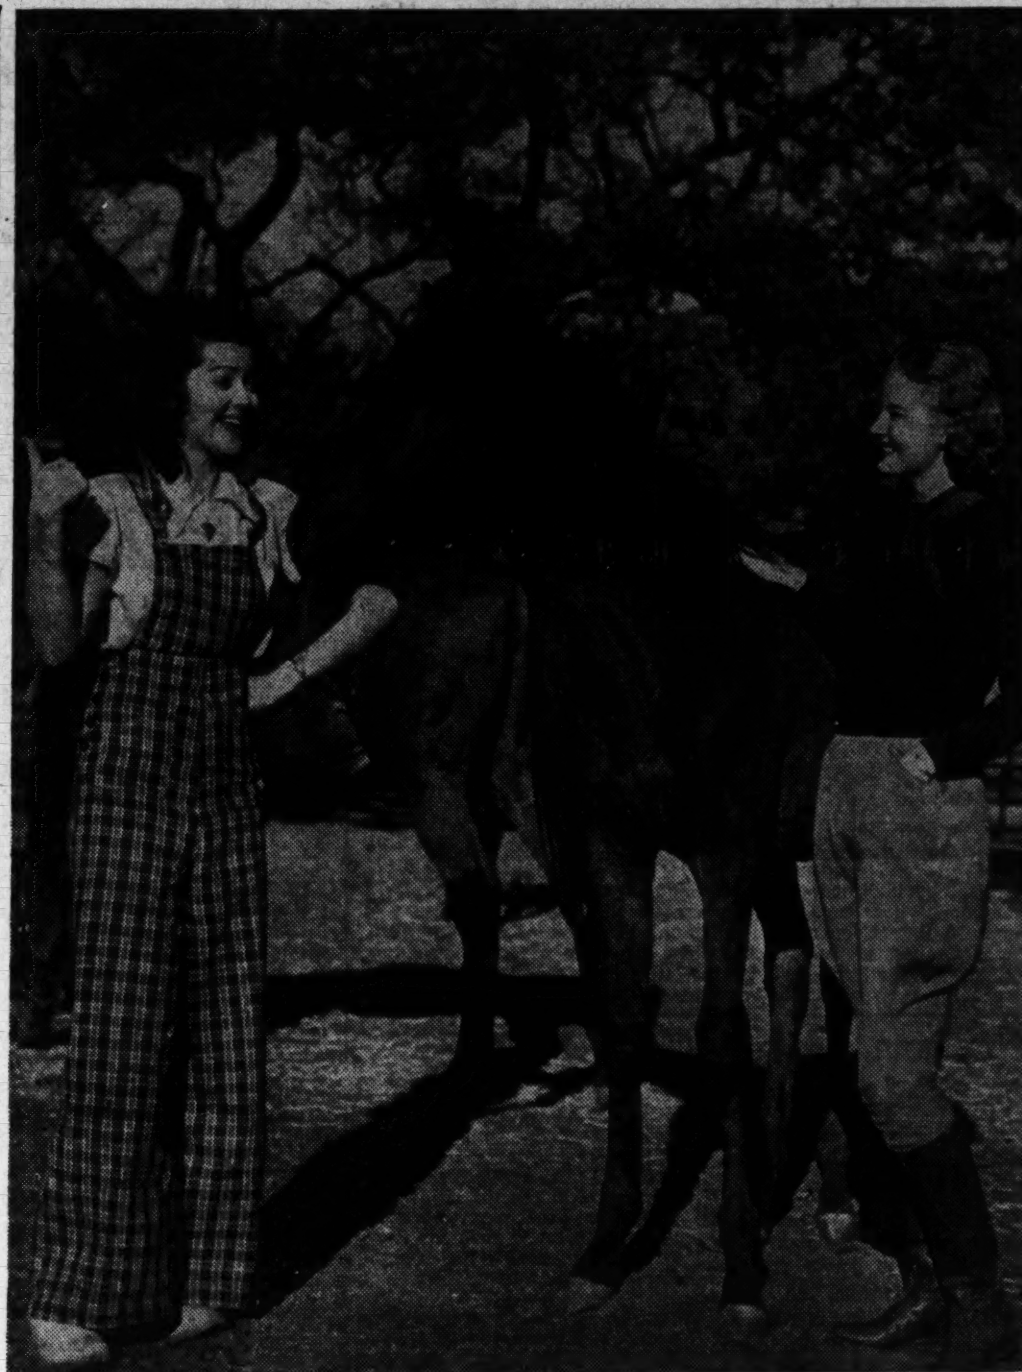

Answer—Man, you had better send right away to U. S. Department of Agriculture, or Government Printing Office, fifteen cents for copy of "Vitamin Content of Foods." Compare the analysis of wheat and buckwheat. Buckwheat supplies 25 international units of vitamin B in the ounce, as against wheat which supplies only 15 units. If you ever have the good fortune to find a stack of old-fashioned yeast-raised buckwheat pancakes on your breakfast table, with genuine maple syrup, plenty of butter, and UNFOLDED coffee on the side, you'll begin to understand why the 'nth of October, when the sack of prize buckwheat arrives from Penn Yan, is a day of rejoicing hereabouts. Of with your food, don't let us stop you. But by the same token you can't expect us to go sour on good food just because you harbor quaint obsessions about it. Drop in some morning and try your luck spearing a pancake if you can beat me in cream.

Tobacco Cramp or Run Down Heels?
Reader who reported remarkable relief of daily leg cramps when (a) he took calcium and vitamin D and (b) quit smoking, says he had the run-down heels of his shoes straightened up. He has several times suffered with muscle strain in calves, knees and back, which disappeared soon after I had the run-over heels straightened up. (N.R.M.)

Answer—Thank you. I enjoyed the way you wrote in rhyme, but some people resent anything facetious in this column.

LONG FEAR JUSTIFIED.

Harvey Rainer, of Escondido, Cal., hated and feared automobiles. He called them suicide wagons. In preference Rainer pedaled a bicycle "for safety's sake." Now he's dead from injuries suffered after 40 years of accident-free cycling. At the age of 81 he was struck by a car.

Taking advantage of a day from the studio, Ann Rutherford and Jean Chatburn, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer featured players spend a day in the open romping with their favorite horses. Both girls, ardent horsewomen, have a gay time feeding, grooming and putting the pets through their paces. Both have important parts in "Dramatic School" which stars Luise Rainer.

Paulette Goddard Enjoys Work in "Dramatic School"

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14.—"Dramatic School" ... Luise Rainer smiled gently as I entered the set. She was wearing white slacks and her hair was done up in the new top-of-the-head fashion. She looked prettier than I had seen her in a long time. Maybe her new cooperative attitude also has something to do with it. I am told that, only this morning, Luise posed for fashion stills—a necessary something she has refused to do until now. Not only that, but she has made up her mind to accept the fact of Paulette Goddard's co-starring billing. At the end of their scene, Producer Mervyn Le Roy thanked Miss Rainer for being so awfully nice to Miss Goddard. ... Someone asked Paulette how she was doing. "It's marvelous," she replied. "I always wanted to go to dramatic school."

Maxie Rosenbloom is telling the folks that he will probably win the academy award next year. "I'm going to play the big guy in 'Of Mice and Men,'" says Maxie in explanation. "A little fellow named Cagney will play the other part," he adds. ... Talking about the award, Victor McLaglen is also quite sure he will win it for his portrayal in "Gunga Din." I doubt whether either of these boys will even win the academy award for modesty. Jeannette MacDonald has joined the innomies and will be grateful for a recipe that will help her sleep. ... Gene Raymond, husband of Jeannette, will set for a part in her latest picture, "Broadway Serenade," but he was passed over in favor of Lew Ayers. ... Mickey Rooney is complaining, "Why do they keep on working me? I'm sick. I've got a cold, and I haven't a chance to look at my English literature." Mickey has made six pictures this year, which is too much for his strength, but not enough for his fans.

Lots of letters from readers wanting to know more about Mrs. Ann Franklin, the accredited filancee of Nelson Eddy. Well, she is the ex-wife of Producer Sidney Franklin, and met Nelson in the east during one of his concert tours. She is blond, aged around 35, and has received the stamp of approval from Mrs. Basil Rathbone, who always invites her with Mr. Eddy to her numerous parties.

Ronald Colman back with bride, Benita Hume. The latter, with Ronnie's help, will now seriously attempt a film career. ... Richard Barthelmess tells me that the reason why he has not acted on the screen these past years is that he made an adequate sum of money, and wanted to enjoy the spending of it unhampered by work. As Dick says himself, "Why have money if you can't have fun?" But Mr. Barthelmess has by no means spent all his dollars. A large sum is invested in four houses he owns in these parts—two in Beverly Hills, one at Malibu and one at Brentwood—and they are all rented and bringing in a large income.

Put Two One-Armed Chairs Together as a Love Seat

By Elizabeth McRae Boykin.

"We're in a flurry trying to make some changes in the house before Christmas," writes Mrs. R. H. R. "We are going to buy two new living room chairs, possibly a new rug and an odd table. We have an English sofa in wine color, an arm chair in green wool, two white leather chairs, lamps in gold and white, a mahogany spinet desk and tables, coffee table, broadloom rug in a honey tone, draperies in brown satin lined with eggshell satin, eggshell celanese glass curtains, a dramatic pair of negro figures (Blackamoors) in bright costumes, and woodwork in cream."

We Have in Mind.
"I will tell you what changes we had in mind, but please do not let me influence you. The two new chairs we are considering have but one arm each and we want to use them on either side of the fireplace. The reason for the one arm, as you no doubt know, is so as to put them together as a love seat and in one place or two other positions. They can be had in either satin or brocade with fringe around the bottom—they have piped backs. The colors available are chateaux or brown with eggshell stripes. If chateaux, then brown fringe, and if brown, then eggshell fringe. We also thought if we got a solid color we would prefer brocade to satin because of the wearing qualities. What do you think of this type of chair and what about the color? The rug we now have we thought could be dyed, otherwise don't. The white leather chairs will be fine here. Or they could be beige to tone in with the rug."

The Answer.
I like your ideas. I favor chateaux for the two new fireside chairs because I believe that color would give the room a pleasant lift. You have to be careful of too much brown. I'd like to see the chateaux repeated in a few accessories too if possible. Perhaps a mahogany hanging shelf with unusual plates or porcelain pieces predominately chateaux would do it. I believe the satin would be a little smarter than brocade for the new chairs but as you say it won't wear so well. Give it a simple rather modern-looking brocade.
In the dining room I think the honey-toned rug sounds quite all right with the things you have there. Of course you can see it and if the tones do actually clash, have it dyed, otherwise don't. The white leather chairs will be fine here. Or they could be beige to tone in with the rug.

TODAY'S CHARM TIP

Knowing how to put people at their ease is a valuable charm potion. To do it 'tis sometimes wise to talk about yourself a bit to start the conversation "ball" a-rolling!

Eating Between Meals Is No Longer a Crime

By Ida Jean Kain.

You can teach an old dieter new tricks. Eating between meals and even eating sweets, always regarded as fatal to a reducing diet, are now in high favor.

The idea is not to let your diet take all the starch out of you. When you begin to get that all-gone feeling around 11 a. m., instead of sticking it out until a lunch time, have something sweet to provide quick energy—a banana, a glass of fruit juice, a glass of skim milk, even a bonbon. Then at 4 p. m., another zero hour for many a reducer, have a cup of tea with a lump of sugar, some fruit juice or a sweet of some kind.

According to dietetic experts, your energy needs are more adequately covered by taking food at frequent intervals. The new theory is that sweets, used in moderation, can be made an important part of the reducing diet. The reduction in calories, necessary for the loss of weight, may be an uncomfortable change accompanied by a feeling of depression, nervousness or headaches. These symptoms may be associated with the reduction in the blood sugar. An actual weakness results from the exhaustion of available energy and reduced blood sugar. This can be counteracted by eating a moderate amount of sweets between meals for quick energy.

These in-between-meal calories, however, are not extra. They must be figured in with your daily allowance and the total must not exceed two-thirds your normal allowance if you are to lose your two pounds per week. It is easy to juggle the calories to include these snacks without exceeding your limit.

A minimum of fat in the reducing diet continues to be the rule and this rule must be strictly observed when you take food more often. It is a fact that body fat is stored more easily from food fat than from other fuel foods. Also, remember that the fats are higher in calories than the other food elements. One ounce of butter, for example, contains two and one-fourth times as many calories as an ounce of sugar. It is a wise dieter who cuts the fats from the meat before cooking, uses a measured amount of cream, restricts the butter to one and one-half pats per day, and uses Reducer's French Dressing and Reducer's Mayonnaise.

While fat should be restricted to the minimum, protein should be kept fairly high in the reducing diet. Be sure to include daily a liberal amount of lean meat, one egg, a glass of skim milk or buttermilk, and cheese or cottage cheese. These protein foods stimulate tissue metabolism and speed up your reducing.

In general, the reducing menu should contain a fair amount of carbohydrate, a liberal amount of protein and a minimum of fat. Dieting is, at best, no fun... we want to use all the scientific discoveries to make the going easier.

the responsibility of a family at 25, which doesn't seem right to me. Anyhow they are dead against his marrying because he's their main support. We have been going together for a long time and love each other very much. He's not the mushy type and neither am I. Both of us are serious and steady young people, as much good friends as sweethearts. He seems to take it for granted that we will be married some day and when we are talking about the future he often says, "After we are married we will do this or go there," but he never says when that will be. Neither of us goes around with others to any extent. Now Miss Chatfield, I am 23 and beginning to think about settling down in a home. What are my prospects? Frankly I don't know and I want you to tell me how to find out before my disposition is ruined. G. E.

ANSWER:
Let me tell you this, young lady. When a girl gets hold of a dud; that is a boy friend who talks volubly on the subject of "When we get married" and never reaches the pointed question: "When can we get married?" she may know her prospects are poor indeed. Either he is stalling—or he's designing. Either he's stalling—or he's putting on an act to deceive her.

Any 25-year-old man knows that a girl who devotes her time and attention to devote her life to him and in all fairness he should tell her if she's coming to the end. No matter what his situation as regards finances, dependent family, opposition of family, she's entitled to know the facts and also his slant on the facts. Sometimes an explicit question as to what his intentions are is the only way to get the truth.

G. B. Stern says that every girl cuts her cloth according to one pattern in matters of love. It must be true. She will go on and on loving a man that's attentive to her, hoping hourly to hear the words she's working for. Her patience is almost inexhaustible. But finally if he won't say them she gets sick of waiting. And then a wisp has nothing on her. She's nervous, irascible and ready to sting. Inevitably the ease and pleasure goes out of their relationship; for no man can have any fun playing with a wasp.

Yet it's a wanton waste of words to tell a girl that a man doesn't expect to marry her while she's still engaged in wishful thinking. Nobody can convince her that his failure to hang the facts on the line means that the facts are not to her liking. She can find a thousand excuses for his silence: Family finances, inferiority complexes and fright at proposing.

While the simple truth is that a man who found his girl, no foolin' formulates his matrimonial program and is bold as a lion in stating it. Circumstances over which he has no control may delay him in carrying out his program; but he scotches the plan to keep her from getting away from him while he's being held up.

The men are none too enthusiastic over the aggressive policies of the modern maids who think it proper to do their own proposing. That's one prerogative that the modern men cling to like grim death. Let them have it, I say. But when the maiden is kept on the anxious bench year in and year out, I say it's her prerogative to ask, "How long, oh Lord, how long!"

SAMMY SNEAD WILL SEEK LAST BIG PRIZE TODAY

Money Winner Out To Annex $10,000 Miami
Open Stakes.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Samuel Jackson Snead, battering ram of the professional golf brigade, goes after his last big prize of the year in the $10,000 Miami open tomorrow with a good chance of boosting his 1938 earnings past a record $20,000.

Snead bombed his way around this course four times last year in 267 strokes, 13 under par, a fair indication the layout is suited to his cannonading drives. He has whipped out a pair of 67s in practice and the experts are wondering just who, if anyone, can prevent him from winning again.

OVER $20,000.
Third place or better would send his year's income over $20,000, for he has banked $19,039 while winning eight of the 34 tournaments already played. The Miami open winner will draw down $2,500, the runner-up $1,250 and the third prize is an even $1,000.

Tournament prognosticators concede Ralph Guldahl, national open champion, and Johnny Revolta the best chances of heading off Snead. Guldahl, always dangerous, has been resting here for several weeks and Revolta, who won the 1933 Miami open in starting his climb to fame, is in form. Last season Revolta won the $10,000 Miami Biltmore open, since discarded.

EVERY PRO.
The field, expected to reach 200 by tee-off time, includes virtually every important American professional, with a score or more considered definitely in the running. Not the least of these is Craig Wood, winner in three of his last five starts, including the recent Augusta open.

All of the Ryder cup players are ready to go, even Gene Sarazen who got in trim by milking cows on his farm at Brookfield Center, Conn. Sarazen is a four-time Miami open winner.

Paul Runyan, P. G. A. champion, Henry Picard, Horton Smith, Byron Nelson, Denny Shute, Ed Dudley, Jimmy Thomson, Dick Metz, Bill Burke, Willie MacFarlane, Jimmy Hines and the other seasoned campaigners have been on the scene for several days, polishing their shots.

The course, 6,310 yards long, has a par of 35-35-70.
MONEY WINNER.
Snead was assured of finishing the year as the leading money winner, since his nearest rival, Revolta, has collected only $8,553. Smith held the previous record, $15,550 won in 1929.

Thomson served notice he could not be overlooked when he cracked out a 64 during a warm-up competition between ten-man teams of "oldsters" and "youngsters" today. The youngsters won, 3 to 2, duplicating a victory at Augusta recently, but Thomson and Runyan lost to Dudley and Cooper in a best-ball match that went five extra holes. The teams had finished the 18 holes all square with best-ball 63's.

Wood and Tony Manero scored the other oldest victory, 2 and 1, over Vic Ghezzi and Smith.
The youngsters won the other three matches, Snead and Metz downing Shute and Hines, 3-1; Guldahl and Ben Hogan defeating Picard and Tommy Armour, 5-3; and Revolta and Nelson trimming Sarazen and Burke, 6-4.

NORTH, SOUTH TEAMS READY

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 14. (AP)—Full teams for the North-South "Blue and Gray" all-star football game here January 2 were announced today by W. A. Gunter, mayor of this city known as "the Cradle of the Confederacy."

The game, planned as an annual classic, has a tint of the old north-south rivalry going back to the era of the War Between the States. Each roster, selected from senior college players, from either side of the Mason and Dixon line, has 22 players. All must report here by December 28.

Coaches Lynn Waldorf and Bert Ingwersen of Northwestern, and Carl Snively, Cornell, will handle the northern or blue gridders; with Frank Thomas, Alabama, and Jack Meagher, Auburn, tutoring the southern or gray boys. The teams:

NORTH.
Ends—Tony Jacuski, Fordham (188) pounds; Carl Spang, Cornell (176), Tony Eby, Northwestern (175), and Dave Diels, Michigan State (187); tackles, Bill McKeever, Cornell (215), Alex Schoenbaum, Ohio State (211), Bob Haak, Indiana (230) and Carl Kaplan, Ohio State (235); guards, Steve Petro, Pittsburgh (185), Mike Kochal, Fordham (190), Len Howland, Wisconsin (215), and Dan Elmer, Minnesota (190); centers, Al Van Ramst, Cornell (211) and Paul Humphreys, Purdue (195); quarters, Vince Gavne, Wisconsin (185) and John Chickernoe, Pitt (205); halfbacks, Roy Bell, Ohio State (185), Mike Kabealo, Ohio State (175), Lou Tomasetti, Bucknell (228), and Ernie Wheeler, North Dakota State (187); fullbacks, Colby Howe, Dartmouth (182) and Buck Ippolito, Purdue (200).

I offer a hypothetical case. Suppose Tech should lose and Duke should win. Well, everything would be very merry both ways. The ideal thing is, however, for both teams to have a most pleasant time going and coming.

Game and fish problems close to the hearts of state hunters and fishermen will be discussed in open meeting this afternoon at the capitol.

The wildlife committee, appointed by Governor Rivers, will listen to the views of all those interested in the matter. Cason Calloway, of LaGrange, is chairman.

This is the people's meeting. And it is very likely that recommendations the committee makes to Governor Rivers will be governed by the sentiment of the majority in the open meeting.

There is, of course, a great desire among state hunters, fishermen and landowners for a program of permanence which will assure Georgia's return to its rightful place in the conservation scheme.

Georgia sportsmen have asked for a voice in the management of their state wildlife division. They believe that it is possible for the department to be taken out of politics and placed on a paying, as well as lasting, basis.

Most of those taking an active interest in the matter seem to prefer a commission form of wildlife management patterned, perhaps, after such state commissions as Michigan and Pennsylvania.

Seven non-paid directors would select their chief director, who, of course, would have complete charge of the program for the future.

There is no way of knowing what will be worked out. But there is certain to come out of the discussion something that will work for the betterment of state wildlife.

Governor Rivers obviously is anxious to see that the people are granted their wishes in regard to the betterment of game and fish conditions.

The main thing today, it seems, is for the hunters and fishermen to rally to the cause. The more who attend the meeting the larger the voice they will have. There naturally is strength in numbers and it's no secret that a large part of the sportsmen who buy licenses are highly interested.

But high interest and personal appearance are two different things. The open meeting idea, originating with the Governor's committee, is a great thing.

Differences may arise, and all that, but out of the pros and cons of floor debate, there likely is to come a feasible solution to the present problem, which, it may be added, is pressing.

TALKING POINTS.

If the majority favor the commission form of management, as they seem to do, a couple of good talking points come to mind.

Pennsylvania, for instance, had more than $18,000 left over at the end of their fiscal year after all bills and projects were met.

Michigan, managed wisely, had the impressive sum of half a million in the treasury. Then there was Wisconsin. The commission form of management had $48,000 clear money to show.

These figures come to mind in connection with the commission form of management under which wildlife affairs in many states have prospered.

There is to such a management of wildlife affairs a state of permanence. There is none of the change of management with change of administrations. It is a settled proposition.

But whatever comes of the sportsman's plea there is certain to be something for the better. And one step in the right direction easily could lead to another.

DAVIS SEEMS LOGICAL.

Clint Davis, who has devoted many years to conservation work and presently is employed by the United States Forest Service, seems a logical man to head a wildlife program for Georgia.

He is a Georgia boy, born and bred, and in his work as a conservationist, has traveled extensively through six or seven southern states. He has studied wildlife conditions thoroughly and knows his way around.

Davis is well known to the majority of those who hunt and fish in Georgia, either personally or by reputation. There is not to be construed as a measure of drum-beating in behalf of his selection as the director of the wildlife division.

It is simply the earnest desire of this palladium of the public weal to see real progress made in one of the state's most important divisions.

For one thing, I like to hunt and fish. And there doesn't seem to be much sense connected with a proposition that sends one out of a state once considered one of the best in America for such sport to attain better results and real satisfaction elsewhere.

DUKE PARTY TO SUPPORT TECH.

Some of the North Carolinians who so heartily opposed Georgia Tech when the Yellow Jackets played the Duke Blue Devils during the season are now on the other side.

A communication from Ted Mann, highly efficient director of publicity for Duke, reveals that several North Carolinians, including himself, will fly from Pasadena to Berkeley to see Tech play California on the day after Christmas.

Atlanta sports writers with the Tech party will reciprocate on January 2. They will be perched on the rim of the Rose Bowl cheering for the Dukes against Southern California.

That comes under the heading, perhaps, of good old southern spirit. Real rivalry exists only during the 60 or so minutes a game is being played.

It's real nice of the Duke people to be so considerate, however, considering that not so many years ago the Jackets knocked Duke out of the first chance to go to the Rose Bowl in the final game of the regular season.

OUT WITH TECH—BACK WITH DUKE.

It seems a bit unusual. I mean the arrangements have been worked out for this particular western expedition.

Atlanta sports writers will go west with Tech and return with Duke. It isn't often the chance is offered to go out with one southern team and come back with another.

I offer a hypothetical case. Suppose Tech should lose and Duke should win. Well, everything would be very merry both ways. The ideal thing is, however, for both teams to have a most pleasant time going and coming.

JORDAN AND COMPANY.

Bill Jordan, the ex-Tech star, and Lindy Hood, Alabama's former All-America center, will play with Goodyear, of Gadsden, against the accomplished Warren basketball team tonight at the arena. If the rest of the Goodyear team is of the caliber of Jordan and Hood, Coach Shep Lauter's crew won't find any time dragging on their hands.

MILTON HOWELL NAMED CAPTAIN OF AUBURN CLUB

Bill Nichols Is Chosen as Alternate Leader of 1939 Eleven.

By ELMER G. SALTER.
AUBURN, Ala., Dec. 14.—Top-flight linemen will lead Auburn's 1939 football team. The Tigers' lettermen of this fall today named Guard Milton Howell, Bessemer, captain of next season's eleven and Tackle Bill Nichols, Sylacauga, alternate captain.

Both will complete illustrious college grid careers in 1939. Election of Howell, who was chosen on the initial ballot by a wide margin, gives Jefferson county the honor of claiming Auburn's grid leader for the second consecutive year. The brilliant Howell falls heir to the leadership reins released by Bo Russell, Birmingham All-Southeastern and second All-American tackle.

Despite being absent from half of Auburn's 10 games this year on account of injuries, Howell, who is sensational in every guard department and is one of the best in the Tigers' history, was acclaimed as one of the two ace guards in the Southeastern conference and received considerable all-star recognition. Posts on the major mythical clubs would have been awarded him if he had not been a casualty for five tussles.

As it was, he came in for second team honors in the balloting for all-star births in the important races, and he also was placed on five all-opponents' teams. He saw action against only five clubs this fall. It now looks like he will plunge into the 1939 campaign as ranking All-American candidate. He weighs 185, is 5 feet 11 inches tall, is daring and reckless and loves to play football. Even loves it better than eating.

There is not a more conscientious football player at Auburn than the Bengals' alternate captain-elect. Nichols does not have so much class as some of the other linemen in Dixie, but his spirit, willingness and determination makes him as valuable as any.

Derby Prize Won By Atlanta Dog In Miss. Trials

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Amateur all-age, open derby and puppy stakes all were decided here yesterday as the Mississippi Field Trial Club continued its meet on the Mannsfield course north of Jackson.

Schoolfield's Penny Tip, owned and handled by Bennie Norris, of West Point, Miss., won the all-age laurels with Nola, owned by Roger Jones, of New Madrid, Mo., second, and Sugar Bowl Joe, owned by Dr. W. A. McDonald, of Baton Rouge, La., third.

The derby prize went to Chief Grey, owned by D. B. Lasseter, of Atlanta, with second place being won by War Admiral, owned by Dr. T. G. Jones, of Chicago, and the third spot being occupied by Lake Creek Jake, the property of R. A. Scott, of Carbondale, Ill. Mississippi-owned dogs took all three places in the puppy stakes.

$100,000 STAR SOLD TO TIGERS

The pitching sensation of the year on the Pacific coast was Freddie Hutchinson, shown above. With Seattle, he won 21 games and lost 6, and officials immediately placed a $100,000 price tag on him. Detroit outbid all major league clubs for the young star by sending four players (including Jo Jo White) and cash to the Coast team.

Warren Plays Goodyear Five Tonight

Bill Jordan, Lindy Hood
With Strong Alabama
Quintet.

Big-time basketball will be offered at Warren Arena tonight where two of the south's top teams, Shep Lauter's Warren five, and the Goodyear club from Gadsden, Ala., collide at 8:15. A preliminary between Warren reserves and Georgia Marble from Tate, Ga., will open the card at 7 o'clock.

Goodyear, boasting a lineup which includes Bill Jordan, last year All-Southern forward and football player at Georgia Tech, and Lindy Hood, who made the All-American team at Alabama several years ago. Hood is a center.

Goodyear will rule a slight favorite tonight. Shep Lauter has not had time to whip his group of stars into a smooth, clicking machine and the invaders already have played a number of games and are undefeated. Warren lost its season opener to a flashy Columbus Nehi team, 43-39, but came back with an improved performance Tuesday night in vanquishing Chickopee Mills, 52-31.

Observers believe Warren will have to display more precision and show a great deal more fight tonight to win from the highly touted invaders.

Lauter intimated yesterday that he would start the same lineup as that which opened against Chickopee. That would mean Virlyn Moore and Fred Bradford will open at forwards; Ed Copeland at center and Joel Tierce and Gene Warlick at guards. In reserve are Ted Cabiness, Cherry Foster, Harrison Anderson, Ed Bellamy, Ken Campbell and Lamar Bloodworth.

Copeland performed so well against Chickopee that Carlos Brock, center imported from the Carolinas, was not retained. Brock failed to come up to expectations in workouts. However, L. C. Warren reveals that he was not satisfied with his team and would probably bring in one or two more proven stars.

Attendance at Warren games has been unusually good to date and the best crowd of the season is expected to turn out for tonight's classy program.

MILLER, NOLAN BATTLE FRIDAY

A match the fans made is being offered at Warren Arena tomorrow night. It brings together two of the roughest and stormiest matmen in the light-heavyweight division in Paddy Nolan, known as the "Irish Killer," and Sammy Miller, the bone-breaking Syrian. Both Nolan and Miller have been hammering all opposition into submission, using illegal tactics at every opportunity. Fans have been howling for their scalp and figured the best way to accomplish this would be to match the two villains in an "anything goes" bout. Promoters, learning of the sentiment for a Nolan-Miller bout, lost no time in signing them for the battle of the tough guys.

Glenn Cowan, the police grappler, good for a topnotch performer any time he steps on the mat, will meet Bob Anderson in the semi-final. Bad Boy Brown and John Dameron will grapple in the semi-final.

Regular low prices will be in effect.

DETROIT SEEKS TRAVIS, HIGGINS, HARLOND CLIFT

Uniform Ball, Pitching
Aid Voted; Night Game
Sanctioned.

By JACK CUDDY.
NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Attempts of the rich Detroit Tigers to obtain a top-flight third baseman featured today's second session of the major league club owners who surprised no one by sanctioning the night game, a uniform ball and more lenient pitching provisions.

President Walter O. Briggs, wealthy auto-body manufacturer,

Chapman Is Sold

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(UP)—The Boston Red Sox tonight announced that they had traded Outfielder Ben Chapman to the Cleveland Indians for Denny Galehouse, right-handed pitcher, and Tony Irwin, a shortstop who was with Milwaukee last season. No cash was involved.

sought a third sacker who might bolster the 1939 pennant hopes of the fourth-place Tigers. He and Manager Del Baker negotiated earnestly with three clubs: Boston, St. Louis and Washington.

As the separate National and American league managers adjourned tonight for tomorrow's final joint session, the Boston negotiations appeared hottest. Detroit is trying to get Third Baseman Pinkie Higgins, from the Red Sox, and it was reported reliably that Outfielder Pete Fox and Pitcher Eldon Auker might be sacrificed by the Tigers to make the deal.

Meanwhile, Detroit had been negotiating with the St. Louis Browns for a possible cash purchase of Harland Clift, the Browns' third sacker.

SEEK CECIL TRAVIS.
The third negotiation concerned Detroit's attempt to get Infielder Cecil Travis from the Washington Senators. Just what Briggs was offering Clark Griffith for Travis was not known.

While several minor deals were made by various clubs, the magnates concluded their separate meetings. The two leagues computed upon a uniform ball that will have the raised National cir-

Decatur High Accepts Bid for Game at Tyler, Texas, Dec. 22

N. G. I. C. CHAMPS START PRACTICE; DEPART TUESDAY

Joe Martin's Team Runs Up 214 Points Against 33; Blocks 13 Punts.

By ROY WHITE.
Decatur High resumed its football practice Wednesday afternoon, following acceptance of an invitation to play Tyler High school Thursday night, December 22, in the feature of a Rose Festival at Tyler, Texas.

O. L. Amstler, principal of Decatur High received the invitation late Tuesday night and wired acceptance Wednesday morning, after a conference with coaches Joe Martin and Allen Shi and members of the Decatur High athletic board.

Decatur won the North Georgia Interscholastic Conference championship with eight victories and one tie. It was the fourth N. G. I. C. championship for Decatur since 1930 and the sixth time Decatur has finished within the first three in the past eight years.

Under Dickie Butler's regime Decatur won three straight championships and had a winning streak of more than 30 games at one time. Coaches Martin and Shi succeeded Wendell Sullivan last year and in two years have produced a winner and another fine record with 214 points against 33 for the combined opposition.

Decatur set a new conference record by blocking 13 punts and Harold Pierce blocked 10 himself. In the 20-20 tie game with Athens High, at Athens, Decatur had four four or five touchdowns called back and still finished all-square.

Coaches Martin and Shi started Wednesday afternoon that practice will continue through Monday afternoon with a good long scrimmage set for Friday afternoon or Saturday. Another rough scrimmage is set for next Monday in the final workout of the year.

The team plans to leave Atlanta Tuesday morning, arriving in Tyler late Wednesday in time for a brief workout.

Ralph Kennerly, a halfback and one of the best in the city, has a chance to play in two post-season games west of the Mississippi river. He will accompany Decatur to Tyler and after participation in the December 22 game can go on to Arizona for a January 2 game, should suitable plans be worked out.

TRAINER O'BRIEN SAYS VOLS OKAY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 14.—(UP)—Trainer Mickey O'Brien failed to find an injury on the Tennessee football squad today and expected the champions of the Southeastern conference to be in their best physical condition of the season when they play in the Orange Bowl.

O'Brien was cautioning the players to safeguard against injuries in practice so they would be in top condition when the Vols meet Oklahoma in Miami January 2.

George Cafego, star halfback, had recovered from a sprained back; broken hands of Halfback Babe Wood and Tackle Bob Woodruff had healed, and a cut under the eye of Fullback Joe Waden was hardly noticeable.

THE SPORTLIGHT

By GRANTLAND RICE

ONLY A BEGINNING.
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—Bill Terry, making the Giants over for the 1939 season, still has a lot to do. He has Zeke Bonura to play first base and Bill Jurgens to play shortstop, but that, as Bill knows, is only a beginning. Carl Hubbell recently sounded a warning that he may not have a full year of effectiveness as a major league pitcher left, which isn't surprising, since Carl has had 10-1-2 seasons in the big show and, behind that, three or four in the minor leagues.

And even if Carl's forebodings do not come true, the Giants will need added strength in the box. No matter how good his arm is, Carl cannot go on forever keeping the Giants in the thick of the pennant tussle with the very slight assistance he has had.

At shortstop, Jurgens may be an improvement over Dick Bartell, although the fans probably will agree that it is a toss-up which is the better of the two. For instance, it is a good bet that Bartell will have a better season next year than he had this year. This is because he will have Billy Herman on one side of him and Stanley Hack on the other.

Dick Had No Help.
It isn't that Dick, even granting that he isn't as spry as he used to be, needs much help. He still can caper about the short field as well as anybody in the National League, possibly barring Leo Durocher. But the greatest shortstop that ever lived couldn't play shortstop, second base and third base all at the same time and make a good showing. And that's what Bartell tried to do for the Giants last year.

Everybody but the bat boy—or so it must have seemed to Bartell—had a shot at second base. In desperation, Terry finally grabbed Bill Cissell, a rugged campaigner and a dead game guy—but old. He couldn't cover much ground but he was smarter and steadier than any of his predecessors and he helped Bartell at least a little. On the other side of him, for most of the season, Dick had Mel Ott, a grand ball player who represented the Giants' punch at the plate—but no third baseman. The arrival of George Myatt as the season waned took some of the strain off Dick in that direction, although Myatt, unused to the ways of the big leagues, had to be watched and schooled.

By the time he was flanked by Cissell and Myatt, however, Bartell had veered too close to the point of exhaustion to come back very far. Besides, his season had been ruined.

Between Hack and Herman.
Dick will find it a great relief to be posted once more between competent, experienced players. Gabby Hartnett, who said that with a few exceptions his players would be placed on the block this winter, didn't list Herman among the exceptions but the chances are that Herman will wear a Cub uniform still when next season rolls around.

Hack was one of the players Gabby said he had no intention of trading or selling. That was easy to believe. Hack is the best player on the Chicago team. There is no flash to him and no color. But he is nervous under fire and, as far as the enemy is concerned, he is a persistent and deadly performer.

Joe McCarthy described him, during the World Series last fall, as the "pestiest" player in either league.

"It's a funny thing," Joe said, "but he operates so easily and quietly that you don't realize what he is doing to you. But when the game is over and you check back on him, you find he made trouble for you all the way."

But What of Jurgens?
So being tossed in between those two fellows is going to help Bartell—but what of Jurgens, moving into the Polo Grounds? Myatt indicated last year that all he needed was a little seasoning to make him a first-rate big league infielder and he probably will be able to hold his own. Second base still claims Terry's attention. Burgess Whitehead may be back in his old form—and may not. If he isn't—or if Terry doesn't swing a deal for a stout second baseman, or Alex Kampouris doesn't

JOE STRIPP GLAD TO BE BACK WITH LIPPY DUROCHER

By GRANTLAND RICE

Vet Third Sacker Thinks Leo Will Produce as Dodger Pilot.
ORLANDO, Fla., Dec. 14.—(AP) Joseph Valentine Stripp was enthusiastic about a number of things today, and among them was being reunited with Leo "Lippy" Durocher whom he predicted would make good as a manager of the unpredictable Brooklyn Dodgers.

Stripp, 36-year-old veteran third baseman, said today he was unable to understand the trade that brought him to Brooklyn again to end a round trip that sent him to St. Louis and Boston and back in a year, but said "it was all right with me." The Bees traded him to the Dodgers for Pitcher Fred Frankhouse.

Joe was bubbling over with praise for Durocher, who is the latest in a parade of Brooklyn managers since jovial Wilbert Robinson ended his long tenure.

"Leo is gonna make good with Brooklyn," Stripp enthused. "He's going about things the right way by installing a veteran ball club. That's one city where a young fellow doesn't stand much chance to be able to produce or the fans don't want 'em."

"Another thing," Stripp observed, "I've always liked the idea of a playing manager. A playing manager puts the right spirit into a ball club. He gets out there and shows the rest of his players how to work by his own example, and don't think that Leo won't show 'em, too. He's scrappy and fights like hell."

Joe reminisced on his former association with Durocher.

"Leo is the greatest shortstop I've ever played with," he said. "We played together at Cincinnati back in 1930 and 1931 and we set a national league record for double plays."

"We had a system. He'd play deep and I'd play in the hole. I'd cut across the grass and get it. He'd be way back there in a position to cut off ordinary base hits."

Yeah, that was a great system. He always said that I made short-stopping easy."

Stripp, who hit .2803 last season in 113 games with the Cardinals and the Bees, isn't sure yet whether he will play.

"It's all according to the way I feel," he said. "When I came south a few weeks ago I was exhausted—burnt out, you know—but now I'm feeling okay."

To a suggestion that maybe he was getting old, Joe said no in 50 words of his best dugout rhetoric.

War Admiral Race Up to Mr. Howard
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 14.—(AP)—Marshall Cassidy, assistant to President Joseph E. Howard, Seabiscuit's owner, should announce he desired such a race.

show a sharp improvement, Jurgens is going to be almost as badly handicapped as Bartell was and if he is, his playing will suffer, too.

Jurgens, by the way, was born and reared within an hour's ride of the Polo Grounds but it took him a long time to get there, save in the uniform of an opposing team.

cut stitching and the lighter American league covering and the same center now used in both divisions. The raised seams will give pitchers a better grip and permit curving with the least possible effort. It is expected that this change will give moundmen more of a chance against batsmen in the American league without interfering with the dynamite in the pellet.

NIGHT BASEBALL.
The American league passed a resolution permitting the Philadelphia and Cleveland clubs to play night baseball during 1939. The resolution was not as general as had been planned last night. It is virtually the same provision that governs night ball in the National circuit. Last night League President Will Harridge understood that the resolution would provide for night baseball permanently in the American circuit.

Cleveland and Philadelphia must get permission annually for the nocturnal sport, just as do the National outfits. Each club can play only seven home games.

No big names were included in any of the deals completed, but several important transactions were expected to be announced tomorrow. Brooklyn sold Pitcher George Jeffcoat to Montreal. The St. Louis Cardinals announced that their farm club, Sacramento, of the Pacific Coast league, had sold Pitcher Bill Walker to Seattle. Chicago's Cubs sold Outfielder Croaker Triplett, 1937 Southern league bat champion with Memphis, to Columbus, of the American association. Triples was with Minneapolis most of last season. The Cubs sold Outfielder Jim Asbell, former Knoxville star, to Houston, of the Texas league.

Georgia Tech Ends Home Scrimmaging
Tech completed home scrimmaging yesterday with another long session on Grant field.

Pass defense was stressed as the squad was sent through their third successive rough drill of the week. No new injuries were reported but it developed Joe Bartlett has a broken nose suffered Tuesday.

However, he will be able to play against California December 26 and the Tech squad will leave for the coast Friday in excellent condition.

MOON ON THE WATER

There's a Feeling of Restraint Between Jane and Gavin on His Return.

By RUBY M. AYRES.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Jane Brookes' mother dies soon after her godmother bequeaths her $200,000 to be held in trust for five years until she is 21. Pamela, a year older, takes her mother's place in the household. Dulcie, the eldest, is the blonde beauty of the family. Just as Jane gets her legacy, Gavin Montford returns to England from Canada to visit his uncle, Dr. Blumkin, the Brookes' neighbor and physician. He meets Jane when she comes to the door to see suddenly and he out for a walk. He learns that she loves poetry and is superstitious, particularly about seeing the new moon through glass or reflected in water. They see the moon in a stream as they cross a bridge. Pamela invites Gavin to lunch. He tells her that when our parents died while he was at school he went to Canada and tried several things but with little success. Business he asks her to marry him. She insists he use her money to start in business so she can be with him. Dulcie returns from London, saying Josh Hallard, a wealthy man of 50, wants to marry her. She has a need to be alone with Gavin, even asking him to drive her a new toy, saying she is afraid alone in the fog. Jane is jealous and Pamela wants to wait Dulcie. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

never allow my heart to govern my head."

Jane glanced toward the window.

"There's a car stopping at the gate," she said.

Dulcie gave a mock sigh. "That will be Josh," she said in a long-suffering voice. "He's always so abominably punctual. Go down and talk to him till Mr. ready, there's a pet--and, Jane you might powder your nose first, it's shiny."

Jane went slowly downstairs, to find that Josh Hallard had already been admitted and was in the hall with a very impressed Mary relieving him of his hat and coat.

He was an aristocratic-looking man with grey hair and a slight stoop, and as Jane went towards him he smiled and bowed.

"I'm Dulcie's sister," Jane explained. "She won't be a moment, but--"

"Unpunctuality is one of her charms," he said.

She led the way to the drawing room, distressed to find that the fire was smoking.

"Oh, I'm sorry--" She opened one of the windows a little way, and then hurried back to poke the coals into order. "The wind is in the east," she said. "And when it is, this chimney always seems to smoke. Please sit down--what a lovely car you have; I saw you drive up."

Hallard was looking at her. "Are you Jane, or Pamela?" he asked.

"Jane. I suppose you have heard all about me?"

"Yes."

They smiled at each other, and Jane thought, "I think you're nice--I think I'm going to like you."

She had the feeling that her rather old-frock did not matter to him, or her unruly hair, and that, perhaps, he, too, was thinking that they might be friends.

"Will you have a cigarette?" Hallard asked.

"Thank you," Jane said.

He had a gold case. "He would," Jane thought, but it was a nice gold case, very plain and good-looking, and not at all nouveau riche--but then perhaps he wasn't.

"And you don't really look fifty," she told him subconsciously, "even though your hair is gray," and then she thought how distinguished gray hair could be, and she felt sorry that Dulcie should speak of him so lightly and callously.

"I am sorry Dulcie is so late," she said, but he laughed.

"I never mind waiting," he told her. "You see my time is very much my own--unfortunately."

"You mean--you have no business to attend to?" she asked.

He answered that all his life he had been a man of leisure.

"Isn't that nice?" she asked.

"I think it is one of the world's tragedies," he answered.

She liked him for that, and found herself wondering whether this man cared any more for Dulcie than she did for him, or whether it was just her pretty face which was the attraction.

"You must meet my father," she said. "He--" And then she broke off as Dulcie came into the room.

"I'm so sorry," she gave him both her hands. "But I had a bad night and overslept myself, didn't I, Jane?" This is Jane, she explained. "I hope she's been nice to you."

"Exceedingly nice," Hallard answered.

Dulcie began to pull on her gloves.

"Is it cold out?" she asked, knowing perfectly well that it was. "But we shan't be cold in that lovely car, shall we? It's a most wonderful car," she told Jane enthusiastically. "The kind I would leave home for at any moment!" She laughed. "Jane is shocked when I say things like that," she told Hallard mischievously.

Above her dainty head Hallard's eyes met Jane's with a smile of understanding, and she felt as if some one had lit a little fire in her cold heart.

"Well, I'm ready at last," Dulcie announced. She picked up her handbag. "Father is still in bed, Josh, or I should have liked you to meet him, but perhaps some other time--"

"I hope many other times," Hallard answered, and Jane thought with a little glow: "He doesn't notice that the house is shabby; he's above all that sort of thing. I wonder if he is really in love with Dulcie?" She went with them to the door.

"Expect me when you see me," Dulcie said gaily; she turned to blow Jane a kiss from her fingertips.

Hallard held out his hand. "Good-bye--at least I hope it is not good-bye."

"I hope so, too," Jane answered, and when presently she shut the door and went back to the drawing room she realized in amazement that she felt happier than she had since the day Dulcie came home.

Gavin returned about 6 o'clock that evening. Jane heard his step a long way down the road and recognized it, but a new sort of pride prevented her from giving way to her natural impulse and rushing to meet him; she just stayed where she was by the fire, though her fingers tightened their hold of the book she was reading, and her heart began to race.

She heard the door-bell ring and Mary crossing the hall from the kitchen; Gavin came into the room. Jane half turned in her chair. "Hullo!" she said, and thought what a stupid greeting it was. "All alone?" Gavin asked.

"Yes."

He came forward and bent to kiss her cheek. "How's the head?" he asked.

"Much better, thank you." She put the book aside. "Would you like some tea--or is it too late?"

"I won't have anything, thanks. I must go back to my revered aunt for dinner, I suppose."

He stood beside her, holding his hand to the warmth of the fire. "It's surprisingly cold," he said.

As if they had been married for years and years, Jane thought desolately.

"Hullo! Will you have any tea?" she asked.

No expression of pleasure from Gavin at finding her alone--no excited account of what he had been doing, and somehow it seemed impossible for her to be the first to introduce the subject.

Dulcie's friend called for her this morning," she said.

"One of the Lawsons, do you mean?" he asked.

"No, a Mr. Hallard--he came in a most magnificent car, and he was nice--liked him."

"A bloated millionaire, evidently," Gavin said, and there was a faint bitterness in his voice.

"All Dulcie's friends seem to have money," Jane admitted.

"There was a little silence which she broke to say gently, "You look tired, Gavin."

He half sighed. "Am--I hate London and stuffy offices and poring over legal documents. I am beginning to think there is a good deal to be said for the Canadian backwoods after all."

Jane's heart lost a beat. It was hardly encouraging, and she realized how much she had counted on this moment and being told that everything was satisfactorily settled.

"I wonder whether you would really rather go back to Canada?" she said. She kept her eyes on the glowing coals, and when he did not answer she laughed. "Perhaps Dulcie was not so far wrong in her fortune-telling when she said she could see you crossing the water again." She wanted to add another word, "alone," but it refused to pass her lips.

Gavin made a little gesture of impatience.

"Oh--that--Rubbish," he said.

The silence fell once more, and this time Jane made no attempt to break it. They were almost like strangers, she thought in despair--two people who did not even particularly like each other; all their happy comradeship seemed to have been lost, and the heaviness of misunderstanding lay between them.

He said at last, very bluntly, "Don't you want to know what happened today?"

She flushed. "Of course, I want to know. Is it--all settled, Gavin?"

INVESTMENT FIRM IS ACCUSED BY SEC

'Fraud and Deceit' Charged to Sellers of $600,000,000 in Securities.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(P)—A strenuous legal struggle appeared in prospect today after the Securities Commission filed charges of "fraud and deceit" against the Fidelity Investment

Association which, officials, said, has sold about $600,000,000 of securities to the public.
The complaint was filed in federal district court at Detroit, where Judge Edward J. Moine directed the concern to show cause by next Monday why it should not be enjoined from using the mails or engaging in interstate commerce.
The firm made plain at once that it would fight. Carroll Evans, vice president, declared at the headquarters of the company in Wheeling, W. Va., that he was sure it could convince the court that it should not be restrained.
The company, which has offices in 58 leading cities throughout the country, has a staff of 2,000.

One of the Securities Commission's allegations was that the company failed to purchase and deposit in trust sufficient funds and other securities as required by the West Virginia law and by the terms of certain contract securities issued by the firm.
The commission also alleged that the company deposited with the treasurer of West Virginia certain securities which either were in default or which failed to meet the requirements of West Virginia law.

Jascha Heifetz Plays Here Today; Will Use a Renowned Instrument

Stradivarius or Guarnerius To Be Played by Eminent Violinist.

Jascha Heifetz, among the most eminent of the world's violinists, returns to Atlanta for a concert at the city auditorium at 8:30 o'clock tonight. It will be the first time he has played here in six years, and his concert is one of the outstanding features of the current All-Star Concert Series. More than 4,500 tickets have been sold for this event, and only special seats placed in the orchestra pit and in the extreme side sections of the balcony are available.
Heifetz owns several celebrated violins, known to connoisseurs and collectors. His favorites, however, are his Guarnerius and his Stradivarius, one of which he will play tonight.

JASCHA HEIFETZ.

The Guarnerius, dated 1742, formerly belonged to Wilhelm, the great German artist who toured the country in the 1800's. Before that it was the property of Ferdinand David, the famous violinist of the last century. He was the teacher of Wilhelm and gave it to his pupil in his old age. At one time, too, it came into the possession of the Spanish virtuoso, Sarasate, who played it for two years. Known as the "David Guarnerius" it is listed in all catalogues of historic instruments.
The Stradivarius, made in the year 1731, is one of the finest examples of the master's last period. This beautiful golden-brown instrument is particularly precious to Heifetz since it is intimately bound up with his career. When he first came to New York it was lent to him by a private family to use as long as he wanted. Just as soon as the young man had the means, he bought the "Strad" and has had it ever since.

The program for tonight's concert includes "Allegro" (from Divertimento—D. Major), Mozart; "Sonata No. 3" (E flat), Beethoven; "Concerto (D minor)" Wieniawski; "L'Après midi d'un Faune," Debussy; "El Puerto," Albeniz; "Alt. Wein," Godowsky; "Hora Staccato," Dancic; and "Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso," Saint Saens.

FOURTH OF FINE IS PAID BY JEWS

$100,000,000 Installment Taken From All With More Than $2,000.

BERLIN, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Jewish leaders said tonight that thousands of German Jews will turn over $100,000,000 to the German government within the next 24 hours—perhaps without a single default—to meet the first installment of a $400,000,000 collective "fine" imposed after the assassination in Paris of Ernst vom Rath.
The prediction of 100 per cent payment from every Jew whose fortune exceeds $2,000 was based on the fact that, although the original decree demanded payment in cash, the government recently relaxed the conditions for payment.

Original Plan.
Under the original announcement of the "fine" it was explained that as the only alternative to cash payment government centers would be opened where Jews could liquidate jewelry and other valuables to raise cash.
This plan failed to work and it became apparent that many Jews would be forced into bankruptcy. Therefore the economics ministry permitted the Jews to use securities, land titles and mine royalties in addition to cash to meet the first 25 per cent installment of the crushing fine.

The fine will strip the German Jews of at least 20 per cent of their entire wealth, as it was computed at the time of Von Rath's slaying. In addition, the Jews must pay about $200,000,000 for destruction done by Nazis in the November 11 wave of anti-Semitic disorders, in which Jewish shops were the chief targets.
Riot Deductions.
Jews who have reported losses from the riot destruction will be allowed to deduct these sums from the estimates of their total holdings, thus reducing the ultimate yield to the government.

The government reserved the right to take other measures against Jewish wealth if the levy on one-fifth of all Jewish wealth falls to produce $400,000,000. The procedure of four $100,000,000 installments is being handled like ordinary tax payments and for several days Jews have been lined up at treasury branches making payments. If they are without sufficient cash they go to banks and arrange for the transfer of their securities to the Reichsbank.
The government's permission to Jews to transfer real estate in meeting the fine was published only Tuesday, so that few Jews were able to take advantage of it.

Students Attend Costume Party Given by Art Classes at Girls' High

First Event of Its Kind Presented at School; Prizes Are Awarded Wearers of Unusual and Striking Attire; Informal Exhibit Is Presented.

The once carefree and colorful atmosphere of Bohemia prevailed at the art class costume party given at Girls' High school yesterday as more than 300 students gathered for the first event of its kind.
Highlighting the affair was the grand march, in which four girls were chosen by the judges as prize winners—from an unusual array of costumed entrants. Mildred Harris, as an old-fashioned girl in pink hoop skirt and bonnet, was judged the prettiest. Mary Dunlap, as "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," was chosen the funniest. Prize for the most original costumes went to Alice Richbourg and Dora Williams, portraying convicts dressed in white satin suits with black stripes.

Hindu maidens and ballet dancers, a program was given including a jester's dance by Eleanor Webster and Dorothy Webb; a ballet by Mary Ann Linane and a tap dance by Lanier Landing.
Martha Nalley, president of the Student Government, acted as master of ceremonies and hostesses for the affair were members of the art committee.

Art work of the students adorned the walls of the room and formed the setting for the informal art exhibit. Christmas decorations added a colorful and festive holiday note to the occasion.
Seven courses of art are offered students at the school including drawing and literary design, furniture design, craftsmanship, drawing and painting, creative crafts, art appreciation and modeling.

Judges were Dean Dryer, of the Commercial High school; Mrs. Lucille Austin, Miss Lamar Jeter and Miss Mary Holder.
Prior to the parade, which included art students dressed as Indians, Dutch girls, tramps, jesters, and a gypsy; Nell Barnitz, a Russian; Ruth Sanson and Sara Cooper, comic characters; Frances Fitzgerald, "Harpo Marx," and Frances Pasley as a "Sweet Girl Graduate."
